THE FUTURE OF AUDIO AND VIDEO PHONE CALL IS POSSIBLY HERE

Nokia billed the immersive audio, video call as the biggest leap in live voice calling since the introduction of monophonic telephony

AS THOUGH YOU ARE NEAR THE CALLER

Nokia CEO Pekka Lundmark made the first call using the new 3GPP Immersive Voice and Audio Services (IVAS) codec that allows users to hear sound spatially in real time. Imagine getting a call from a relative abroad, and being able to hear everything in their environment as if you are near them. A smartphone and a 5G network were all it took to make the call

MASSIVELY IMPROVED LISTENING EXPERIENCE

- "It takes you to the caller's environment creating a spatial and massively improved listening experience for voice and video calls," Lundmark said
- During his call with Stefan Lindström, Finland's ambassador of digitalisation, Lundmark showed the distinctive acoustic dimensions that can be experienced with the new IVAS technology, Nokia said

Top ministers retain 2.0 charges, Shivraj gets agri, HDK heavy industries & steel

Prime Minister Narendra Modi chairs the first meeting of his new Cabinet, attended by the newly inducted ministers, at 7, Lok Kalyan Marg in New Delhi on Monday | PTI

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

THERE were no surprises in the portfolios allocated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday to his 72-member ministry as all key charges continued to be with his colleagues from the outgoing cabinet. As this newspaper said on Sunday, it indicated continuity while being alive to the needs of coalition dynamics.

Heavyweights like Rajnath Singh, Amit Shah, Nitin Gadkari, Nirmala Sitharaman and S Jaishankar retained their portfolios of defence, home, road transport and highways, finance and external affairs respectively. This newspaper had earlier reported that the BJP was unlikely to part with any of its core ministries — home, defence, finance, external affairs, railways, IT and law — to the NDA allies.

Former chief ministers Shivraj Singh Chouhan and Manohar Lal Khattar got the important ministries of agriculture and housing and urban affairs, respectively. Their experience in governance is expected help them deal with the crucial portfolios. Khattar also has the charge of power.

Ashwini Vaishnaw, who is credited with the rollout of the Vande Bharat trains and many other mega projects, retained railways, electronics and information technology. The important portfolio of information and broadcasting got added to his bouquet on Monday.

Dharmendra Pradhan and Piyush Goyal retained their education and commerce and industry ministries respectively while Hardeep Singh Puri continues to be the petroleum and natural gas minister. J P Nadda returned to the health ministry he held before he became BJP president.

Thanking Modi for letting him retain his portfolios, Shah said the home ministry will continue to accelerate and strengthen security initiatives and introduce new approaches to realise the PM's vision of a secure Bharat. Also, the ministry of cooperation will remain committed to empowering farmers and villages, he said.

As for the allies, former Bihar chief minister and HAM founder Jitan Ram Manjhi got the ministry of micro, small and mediums enterprise (MSME). JD(S) leader H D Kumaraswamy got heavy industries and steel, and JD(U)'s Lalan Singh panchayati raj, fisheries, animal husbandry and dairying. TDP's K Rammohan Naidu has be given civil aviation. LJP (Ram Vilas) leader Chirag Paswan was allocated food processing.

RLD leader Jayant Chaudhary has been allocated the skill development and entrepreneurship ministry while Shiv Sena leader Jadhav Prataprao Ganpatrao will handle the Ayush ministry.

Now, Sena says it's not happy with MoS post

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

A day after the Ajit Pawar-led NCP rejected a Minister of State (MoS) position in the Narendra Modi cabinet saying it wants a Cabinet post, the Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena said it was not happy with the MoS berth given to it.

Prataprao Jadhav is the sole representative of Shinde-led Sena in the new government. He has been allocated the AYUSH ministry as MoS with independent charge and also health & family welfare as MoS.

Expressing disappointment over the issue, Shiv Sena MP Shrirang Barne said his party is one of the oldest allies of the BJP and deserves a cabinet minister. "In this election, the strike ratio of Shiv Sena was higher than that of the BJP in Maharashtra. The Shiv Sena contested 15 seats and won 7, while the BJP contested 28 seats but won only 9. Our performance is better," said Barne.

"Injustice has been done to the Shiv Sena. Even smaller allies have got Cabinet ministers, but we have been given only MoS," he added. He pointed out that Chirag Paswan was made a Cabinet minister though his party won only five seats. Similarly, the JD(S) with just two Lok Sabha MPs got a Cabinet post, Barne contended.

Meanwhile, Maharashtra Chief Minister Ekanth Shinde held a meeting of Shiv Sena MLAs and MPs on Monday to discuss the party's strategy and plan of action going forward. The meeting was held at Varsha Bungalow, the CM's official residence.

17.09L state farmers to get ₹3k each

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AS Narendra Modi signed a file clearing PM Kissan Nidhi instalment after taking oath as prime minister, the Karnataka government on Monday decided to release Rs 3,000 each to over 17.09 lakh small farmers.

Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda told reporters that a list of beneficiary farmers is getting ready. This will be a compensation. "Farmers depending on rain and those in the tail-end regions of canals where water supply is poor will get this compensation," he said.

At a Cabinet sub-committee meeting, the decision to pay Rs 3,000 to each farmer was taken. "Because of the model code of conduct for LS and Council elections, we could not take this decision," he said.

"NDRF has released Rs 232 crore, which is not sufficient. Hence, we added Rs 232 crore more from SDRF," the minister said.

Apart from this compensation, farmers will be given crop insurance money. "A sum of Rs 1,654 crore has been paid and Rs 136 crore is yet to be released," he said.

The minister said the state received excess rain after the arrival of monsoon on June 1. This has eased the drinking water crisis to an extent. "We have directed the officials to take precautionary measures in places where it is raining heavily," he added.

2 BJP workers stabbed, 1 beaten up in Mangaluru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mangaluru

TWO BJP workers were stabbed and another beaten up after they raised slogans in front of a mosque during a procession to mark swearing in of NDA leader Narendra Modi as PM, at Boliyar near Konaje on the outskirts of Mangaluru on Sunday evening.

The CCTV footage shows BJP workers on motorcycles raising slogans and waving their party flags as they passed by the mosque around 8.51 pm. Six minutes later, three people, who were returning from the procession on their bikes, shouted 'Bharat Matha Ki Jai' in front of the mosque. This enraged some people who were standing near the mosque. They chased the trio, caught them near a bar 2 km away and attacked them.

Mangaluru city police commissioner Anupam Agarwal said after an altercation, the accused stabbed the two BJP workers and beat up another. Mohammed Shakir, 28, Abdul Razak, 40, Aboobakar Siddique, 36, and Monu, 24, were arrested in connection with the attack.

A mini desert atop Gajendragad hillocks?

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

A group of nature lovers, including two from Bengaluru, stumbled upon a small desert atop the hillocks in Gajendragad recently.

The group has teamed up with geologists and researchers to conduct a study on this desert spread over 30 acres of land.

According to researchers, the sand there is similar to those found in deserts and can't be used for building or construction purposes. It is not compact like river sand. It is loosely bound like desert sand. The researchers said that this could be the first mini desert of north Karnataka. The nature lovers went to the hillocks along with biodiversity researcher Manjunath Nayak from Ron and environmentalist Santosh to study the rocky structures there.

The mini desert atop Gajendragad hillocks

On their return, the two nature lovers showed the sand samples to some geology professors and geologists in Bengaluru. After studying the samples, the professors and geologists opined that the sand is similar to those found in deserts. However, it is thicker than the desert sand. They favoured a thorough research into it, according to Nayak.

Nayak said, "We went to the hillocks after visiting Kalakaleshwar, Nagendragad, Bhairapur and other places. We saw a mini desert at Talakad some time ago. But this one is different in many aspects."

An official from the Mines and Geology Department said, "The department will conduct a study. We will soon visit the place along with geologists and other experts."

Govt to pass Bill to split BBMP into 5 corpns

Dividing BBMP will ensure that Congress will win at least some of the five city corporations, says legislator

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A delegation of Bengaluru Congress MLAs and other leaders led by Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar meets CM Siddaramaiah and discuss various issues | EXPRESS

THE state government is likely to hold elections to the BBMP only after splitting it into five city corporations through legislation in the forthcoming joint session of the legislature in July.

A decision was taken at a meeting convened by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah at his home office Krishna on Monday. A delegation of Bengaluru legislators, led by Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who is also Bengaluru development minister, took part in the meeting. Ministers Ramalinga Reddy, K J George and Zameer Ahmed Khan, legislators UB Venkatesh, Rizwan Arshad, Sudham Das, Nagaraj Yadav and Govindaraju, Rajya Sabha members GC Chandrashekar, Krishnappa and Nagaraj Yadav, CM's political secretary Naseer Ahmed and Prof Rajeev Gowda were part of the deliberations.

"The situation is not conducive for Congress to hold polls under the present circumstances as BJP swept all the four Lok Sabha seats in the city. Splitting the BBMP will ensure that the party will win at least some of the five city corporations," a legislator said. After the split, suburban areas that fall under BDA jurisdiction will also come under city corporation, covering over 840 sqkm under greater Bengaluru, they suggested.

The CM has agreed to the plan and the government has decided to prepare the ground to convince the Karnataka High Court, where the matter is pending, to further postpone the BBMP polls. In 2018, the then Congress-JDS alliance government had decided to not to split the BBMP into five as recommended by the restructuring committee.

The court set several deadlines to conduct elections to the BBMP, which has had no corporators since 2021. The government may face contempt if it fails to conduct elections soon.

At the Monday meeting, experts BS Patil and Ravichander, retired bureaucrats, gave a presentation on developing Brand Bengaluru.

Courts can't act like Mughals of bygone era: HC on judge's order

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TAKING exception to a single-judge's order directing a civic body to extend the lease period of a shop located in the municipal corporation building beyond the prescribed 12 years, the division bench of Karnataka High Court observed that writ courts cannot transcend the barriers of law in the guise of doing justice and the judges cannot act like Mughals of a bygone era.

"Obviously, they (writ courts) cannot arrogate to themselves the extraordinary power vested in the Apex Court of the country under Article 142 of the Constitution. After all, we are Judges and therefore, cannot act like the Mughals of a bygone era. More is not necessary to specify," the division bench said.

A division bench of Justices Krishna S Dixit and Ramachandra D Huddar passed the order, while allowing the appeal filed by Channapatna CMC, against the single judge's order on June 2, 2016, allowing the petition filed by Siddaramu of Channapatna in Ramanagara district.

The division bench, taking note that the widow of the petitioner and her minor children may be put to hardship if she is asked to vacate the shop forthwith, permitted her to continue to occupy the shop till December 31, 2024. She should quit the premises on or before the said date, failing which, the municipality can take the premises back, the court added.

Allowing the plea filed by the petitioner, a specially-abled person, seeking directions to fix the lease period to 20 years instead of proposed 12 years by the municipality, the single judge had directed the municipality to execute the lease deed for 20 years for shop No 9 in favour of the petitioner from 2010. That was when the petitioner had got possession of the shop under the orders of the SC, though a maximum of 12 years prescribed under Section 72(2) of the Karnataka Municipalities Act, 1964. Referring to this, the division bench said the lease being a matter of contract, courts cannot rewrite it, in the absence of statutory enablement.

BBMP awaits BTP nod for underpass on Old Airport Rd

MOHAMMED YACOOB
@ Bengaluru

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Project division, which completed underpasses at HAL and Kundalahalli on Old Airport Road in February 2023, is awaiting permission from Bengaluru Traffic Police (BTP) since last December to begin work on the Rs 19.5 crore Wind Tunnel Junction underpass for the Domlur to Whitefield signal-free corridor project.

BBMP officials say police denied permission, citing elections and VVIP and VIP movement on the route. Now there is all possibility that the traffic department may come up with 'monsoon season' as the reason for delay in giving No Objection Certificate (NOC).

A senior engineer from the Projects division of BBMP said that on the side of the ISRO compound, BBMP had acquired land and later laid a side road to divert traffic.

It was expecting land from NAL and other private people opposite ISRO for a similar service road to divert vehicles, but traffic police denied permission.

"We require a maximum of 90 days to complete work, but traffic police is not giving permission, hence we are unable to complete the signal-free Domlur to Whitefield project. We approached the traffic police in December 2023 and still there is no green signal from them," said the BBMP engineer.

Lashing out at BBMP for its shoddy road work and nature of delaying civic projects, a senior traffic official from BTP said police cannot take risk as BBMP cannot honour its commitment.

"They are not able to maintain roads and potholes keep resurfacing. The Ejipura flyover has been hanging fire since 2020. The Old Airport route is preferred for VVIPs like the Chief Minister, Deputy Chief Minister, Governor and Central ministers. If BBMP takes up the work and delays, not just VVIPs, even motorists will suffer on a daily basis," said a senior traffic police official.

'Need to deepen US-India strategic ties'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

ADDRESSING the evolving security challenges in the Indo-Pacific region, over 50 American and Indian defence officials on Monday discussed the two countries' strategic partnership and need to further deepen it through dialogues and agreements on defence industrial cooperation, technology sharing and supply chain resilience.

Assistant Chief of the Indian Naval Staff Rear Admiral Nirbhay Bapna was delivering the keynote address at the 'Partners in Progress' symposium in Bengaluru. The event was jointly organised by Elliott School of International Affairs, George Washington University and Christ University, with support from the US Consulate General, Chennai.

"In these troubled times, the US and India have emerged as like-minded and trusted partners. The 75-year partnership has become a comprehensive global strategic partnership. There is a convergence between the two countries in their shared vision for a prosperous Indo-Pacific region. Information sharing and maritime domain awareness is a priority area of cooperation for both countries," said Bapna. He also recalled the fighter jet engine deal between GE Aerospace and Hindustan Aeronautics Limited as a major milestone for the two countries.

BDA calls for tender to capture drone images for Master Plan '41

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) has taken a significant step towards preparing the much-delayed Master Plan 2041 for the city. It has recently called for tenders to capture drone images of the 642 sqkm of land, with a four-month period to be given for the same.

BDA Town Planning Member, L Shashikumar, told TNIE, "The last date for submission of bids is June 15. There is enormous interest shown by bidders. We have received 11 pre-bid queries already. A few of them want the four month period to be extended to six months." The master plan is a blueprint for the city's future development.

Nearly 400 sqkm out of the 642 sq km falls within the BDA's jurisdiction, while the rest are overlapping areas between BDA and BBMP, the TPM explained. "Drones can help capture Ortho Rectified Images with clairty," he added.

On the other hand, the Karnataka State Remote Sensing Applications Centre (KSRSAC) is using images supplied by the Department of Survey, Settlement and Land Records (SSLR) to capture structures in the BBMP area, running to 800sq km. "KSRRAC has approached the e-governance department and requested that BDA to prepare its own images. Hence, we have now begun this task," he said. The images are crucial to prepare the base map for the plan.

The Transit Oriented Development (urban development approach designed to improve living conditions with quality public transport aided by walking and cycling) features, the addition of green space, extended road network are other aspects to be incorporated in the Master Plan. The draft of the Master Plan is expected to be in place by December 2025. After gazette notification and public hearings, the full-fledged plan could be ready by mid-2026.

Bengaluru is still following the Master Plan 2015 which was approved in 2007, as the new one has been considerably delayed. Meanwhile, the government changed the name and scope of Master Plan 2031 to 2041.

PETER VIDAL

11th June : Does anyone know the origin of the superstition that the number 13 is unlucky? Well, it's all down to the fact that there are thirteen lunar months in a year but only twelve solar ones. When the supporters of the twelve-month calendar (the one we use today) won the argument with the lunar-calendar supporters, they demonised the lunar system by calling it unlucky. I think they were wrong!

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Professional Ariens still seem to have more going for them than those who are travelling, on holiday or temporarily resting. If you should be feeling left out, take the lead and accept responsi-bility in a community enterprise. And if you don't receive the right offers, try to create the opportunities for yourself.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
Faraway places seem to be very much more enticing than anything near at hand. You may even have been dreaming of life abroad. However, there seem to be more important personal matters to deal with, and you should do your best to complete everything in the right order.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
It's time to reflect on the many changes that have taken place recently, and which have left you feeling older, and much, much wiser. This is a moment to make sure that you are able to grapple with practical questions, rather than being obsessed by purely imaginary fears.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
You must now devote more attention to emotional ties and make others see sense, although you shouldn't expect them to view things exactly the way you do. You shouldn't be embarassed about wanting change: the need for diversity is a very human one!

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
Pay whatever attention is needed to chronic complaints, and spare no effort in getting yourself into shape, emotionally, intellectually and physically. The simple reason is that you'll need all your powers of persuasion and concentration later in the week.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Now that Venus is charging through your chart you should begin to feel more hopeful, especially in the romantic department. Yet, please do be careful that your expectations are not too high to be satisfied. A little realism now will sow the seeds for success later on.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You're still in a phase of preparation rather than action, which means that you can afford to put off the big day for a little while longer, if you wish. Above all, avoid financial complacency for, the moment you let down your guard, someone may try to over-charge you.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
There'll be a remarkable series of planetary aspects within a few days, and the consequences could be far-reaching. If you wish to stay out of the firing-line, keep your head down, and if you wish to preserve your position, you must be flexible. That's the least that partners expect.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Keep material affairs in order, and concentrate on anything which guarantees your day-to-day survival. You will have enough on your plate coping with questions of principle later in the week. What that means is minor matters might have to be postponed until you have more time.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You're still in the driving-seat, but if other people expect you to do the fetching and carrying, you'd better oblige. However, you are not without influence, and there is much you can do to shape partners' desires and wishes - even without them knowing!

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The major message coming from today's stars is that it is your inner perceptions and preconceptions which shape your point of view. Material pressures are less important than you might imagine. In other words, focus on what you want to happen rather than worrying about what other people might do.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
One of the many fascinating things about your life at the moment is the extent to which you are operating according to your own inner wishes rather than in line with what other people want, partners included. You need to keep family members happy, but it should be easy!

SEX SCANDAL CASE

Prajwal sent to 14-day judicial custody, shifted to B'luru jail

Ex-MP taken to father Revanna's house in city for spot mahazar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AFTER spending 10 days in police custody, former Hassan MP Prajwal Revanna was remanded in 14-day judicial custody on Monday, in connection with the rape case registered against him at Holenarasipura Town police station in Hassan district.

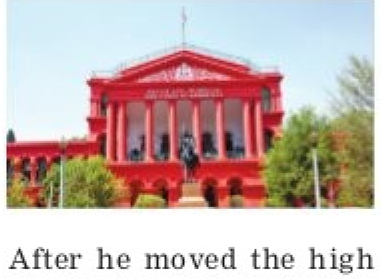
The 42nd Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate (ACMM) court, also the special court to try cases against sitting and former MPs/MLAs, presided over by Judge KN Shiva Kumar, remanded Prajwal in judicial custody, following which the accused was shifted Bengaluru Central Prison in Parappana Agrahara. Prajwal has been given UTR (undertrial prisoner) number 5664. The SIT did not ask for further extension of his police custody.

Before producing him before the court on Monday, SIT sleuths took Prajwal for spot mahazar to his MLA father HD Revanna's house in Basavanagudi, where his mother Bhavani Revanna was present. The former MP was brought to the court around 3 pm. The judge asked Prajwal whether the police tortured him, to which he replied in the negative. After reading the documents placed by the SIT, the judge remanded the accused in judicial custody.

By 3.45 pm, he was taken out of the court room and shifted to the central prison amid elaborate security. On June 6, the court had extended Prajwal's police custody till June 10.

Copying, distributing pen drives of sexual assault a sin, says HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru



THE Karnataka High Court on Monday orally observed that copying and circulating the pen drives of sexual assault is most dangerous and a sin. A man is not going to lose anything, but it is the woman who is subjected to ignominy because of portraying her in poor light, it added.

Justice M Nagaprasanna made these scathing remarks while refusing to stay the proceedings against Sharath, the key accused in copying and distributing the pen drives of sexual assault allegedly involving former MP Prajwal Revanna.

Additional Public Prosecutor BN Jagadeesha placed the investigation papers before the court, indicating Sharath's role. He submitted that the Special Investigation Team recovered a DVR along with a tablet and various CDs from Sharath's place and he is required for custodial interrogation.

The counsel for the accused submitted that mere information is not sufficient to take Sharath's custody for interrogation. The case against the accused was not touched for almost 30 days. After he moved the high court seeking to quash the criminal proceedings against him, the investigating agency took it seriously, he argued.

Jagadeesha submitted that the petitioner is the key person from whose place pen drives were copied and distributed. The counsel for the accused submitted that this case is arising out of a political vendetta and no material is placed against the accused.

The court then asked, "What political vendetta? Let it be. Any person who has done it has done a sin. Whoever has done it has portrayed every woman in poor light. The most dangerous thing for any person who has done this is that, if you portray women in poor light, you don't know the circumstances under which they have happened. If you portray everybody like this, the man is not going to lose anything, it is the woman who is subjected to ignominy."

Ambulance shifting kid chased, driver attacked

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AN ambulance driver who was shifting a five-month-old baby on oxygen support due to breathing complications from a private hospital in Tumakuru to Vani Vilas Hospital in Bengaluru was chased and attacked by four SUV-borne miscreants. The incident took place near Nelamangala toll, on Sunday night, when the ambulance driver, John, overtook the SUV to reach the hospital at the earliest. Irritated by this, the four accused, suspected to have been in an inebriated state, chased the ambulance for over 5 km. They tore his shirt and attacked him after pulling him out of the ambulance.

Three of the four accused have been identified as Manjunath, Latish and Yuvaraj Singh, all residents of Yelachenahalli. The Nelamangala Rural police arrested them on Monday.

Describing the incident, John said, "Since it was an emergency, I overtook the SUV in which the accused were driving. They began trailing me and kept honking all the time. The child needed immediate attention, so I kept driving towards the hospital. However, when I had to slow down and wait for the toll barricade to be removed, they blocked the ambulance, and attacked me. They started abusing and hitting me. The kid's mother kept begging them to stop, so that they could be driven to the hospital. Later, a police constable at the toll intervened, and allowed the ambulance to pass," John said. The video of the incident went viral.

Angered over the incident, few ambulance drivers staged a protest outside the Nelamangala rural police station on Monday, demanding action against the accused.

EMERGENCY TRIP BUTTON PRESSED

Man jumps in front of Metro train at Hosahalli, survives

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A 34-year-old Bengalurean suffering from depression survived miraculously in his attempt to end his life in front of a Metro train approaching the Hosahalli Metro Station on Monday evening. He escaped with a minor head injury thanks to the prompt usage of the Emergency Trip System button on the platform.

Metro train services were disrupted for 33 minutes between Nadaprabhu Kempegowda and Mysuru Road Metro stations on the Purple Line.

This marks the third suicide bid on Metro tracks in 2024 with one youngster losing his life.

A top Metro source said the train on its way towards Challaghatta was arriving at Hosahalli station. "It was nearing Platform 2 at 8.56 pm when a young man jumped onto the tracks and rushed towards the train shocking other commuters waiting to board the train."

Chief Public Relations Officer, BMRCL, B L Yashvanth Chavan told The New Indian Express, "Someone who saw the man run towards the train pressed the Emergency Trip System button on the platform and this brought the train to an immediate halt. Since the man fell between the tracks he escaped. As soon as the train stopped, he crawled on his own from one side of the train. He was reported to be in a conscious condition by eyewitnesses. The individual has suffered a minor head injury and was rushed immediately to hospital."

Chavan added, "We do not know yet if the button was pressed by a member of the public or a security or Metro staff. CCTV camera footage examined later will let us know what exactly happened."

"The victim was suffering from depression. He has minor head injury and is out of danger. We cannot disclose his name and details because he is a patient of depression," the police said.

An official release said that short loop services were run on the two end points of the Purple Line, between Challaghatta and Mysore Road on one side and between Kempegowda station and Whitefield (Kadugodi) on the other side. Normalcy of train services on the Purple Line resumed from 9.30 pm.

MINISTERS FROM KARNATAKA LAND PLUM PORTFOLIOS IN TEAM MODI 3.0

Debutants Somanna & HDK and experienced Joshi, Nirmala, Shobha— 5 from state in cabinet

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

Union ministers Nirmala Sitharaman, V Somanna, Shobha Karandlaje, HD Kumaraswamy and Pralhad Joshi

MANY important portfolios have been allocated to newly inducted ministers from Karnataka in Prime Minister Narendra Modi's ministry. A day after they took oath along with the PM, portfolios were assigned to the new ministers on Monday.

While Nirmala Sitharaman, a Rajya Sabha member from Karnataka, retained the Finance and Corporate Affairs portfolios, former Chief Minister and state JDS president HD Kumaraswamy will be the Minister of Heavy Industries and Steel. Dharwad Pralhad Joshi will be Minister of Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution and Minister of New and Renewable Energy.

Bengaluru North BJP MP Shobha Karandlaje will be the Minister of State in the Ministry of Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises and Minister of State in the Ministry of Labour and Employment.

BJP MP from Tumakuru V Somanna got two key portfolios. He will be the Minister of State in the Ministry of Jal Shakti and Minister of State in the Ministry of Railways.

As MoS in the Jal Shakti Ministry, Somanna can play an important role in getting the required clearances for irrigation and drinking water projects, including the Mekedatu balancing reservoir project.

Neighbouring Tamil Nadu has been opposing the project even after the Karnataka Government assured that the proposed project would help both the states and Tamil Nadu's share of Cauvery water will be released. Somanna will also push the implementation of the Jal Jeevan Mission, one of the key initiatives of the Modi government.

Former CM Kumaraswamy thanked the PM for giving him important portfolios. Taking to social media, the JDS leader said, "I am deeply grateful to the Hon'ble Prime Minister, Shri @narendramodi, for appointing me as the Minister of Steel and Heavy Industries in the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) government in its third consecutive term. #Steel_Heavy_Industries."

MODI DIALS DEVE GOWDA

JDS patriarch and former Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda said PM Modi called him and shared his thoughts and ideas on the new government. "PM Shri @narendramodi avaru called me to share his thoughts and ideas on the new government. He enquired after my health too. I am grateful for his care and concern. His warmth made me emotional. May the almighty's blessings always be on him. May he lead India to greater glory," Gowda tweeted.

I've a vision to strengthen manufacturing sector: HDK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

UNION Minister HD Kumaraswamy has said that as Heavy Industries Minister he has his own vision for strengthening the manufacturing sector across the country. There is also lot of scope for taking initiatives to generate employment opportunities in all the districts in Karnataka, especially regions like Kalyana-Karnataka, the two-time former Chief Minister said.

Speaking to media persons in New Delhi, Kumaraswamy, who is Karnataka Janata Dal-Secular president, said that though he was expecting the Agriculture Ministry, he respects the decision to give him the Industries and Steel portfolios and there is no scope for any confusion. There is a lot of scope for developing Karnataka and generating employment opportunities in all the districts, he added. Kumaraswamy said that as CM he wanted to set up industrial clusters in all the districts in Karnataka. "I will visit all the states, take every one into confidence and work to further improve the manufacturing sector in the country," he added.

On Monday evening he held a meeting with the senior officials of his ministry. He emphasised this aim to increase industrial production and create more jobs across the country. He said a detailed blurprint will be prepared within a fortnight.

HDK proves again he is saviour for struggling JDS

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@Bengaluru:

HD Kumaraswamy, a two-time former CM of Karnataka, is the Union Minister of Heavy Industries and Steel

POLITICAL analysts, who regarded former prime minister HD Deve Gowda as the Chanakya of Karnataka politics, have now termed his son and former chief minister HD Kumaraswamy as the 'messiah' of the Janata Dal (Secular), which he has kept afloat amid upheavals. He managed to juggle between the two national parties — BJP and Congress — for almost two decades to ensure the regional outfit survives.

This time, JDS won Mandya and Kolar Lok Sabha seats, and as JDS leaders claim, the party helped alliance partner BJP win over ten seats, including Bangalore Rural where Gowda's son-in-law Dr CN Manjunath defeated DyCM DK Shivakumar's brother DK Suresh.

As a reward, Kumaraswamy got a cabinet berth. His entry into the Modi cabinet will boost the morale of the JDS rank and file, which was facing rough weather due to Hassan MP Prajwal Revanna's alleged involvement in the sex scandal. Kumaraswamy tactfully distanced Prajwal from the party by expelling him, as the Congress was looking to exploit the issue.

But according to psephologists in Karnataka, Kumaraswamy's role as party saviour dates back to 2004, when the state threw up a fractured mandate and then CM SM Krishna lost his chair. Gowda had managed to strike a deal with then AICC president Sonia Gandhi to form an alliance government with the Congress but on the condition that N Dharam Singh should be made chief minister. Krishna, also a Vokkaliga leader of Old Mysuru region with DK Shivakumar as his troubleshooter, was sent as Maharashtra governor.

Sensing a threat from the Congress, Kumaraswamy brought down the Dharam Singh government and allied with the BJP to form the government in 2006. But he did not transfer power to BJP, which was termed a betrayal and for which the JDS and Kumaraswamy had to pay a big price.

In 2013, when Congress got a thumping majority, the JDS had no role to play as alliance partner. But in 2018, Congress forced JDS into an alliance but the government was short-lived, and the government fell in 2019.

In the 2023 assembly polls, when the Congress won a landslide victory, the JDS faced an existential crisis with Congress leaders allegedly trying to poach party MLAs. Kumaraswamy was quick to make amends and with Gowda's blessings, again forged an alliance with the BJP as he felt Modi would become PM again.

POLITICAL CALL

Won't contest Channapatna by-election, says Suresh

ENS @Bengaluru

FORMER Bengaluru Rural MP DK Suresh on Monday said that he will not contest the bypolls to Channapatna Assembly constituency.

Suresh, brother of KPCC chief and DyCM DK Shivakumar lost the Lok Sabha elections from Bengaluru Rural to the NDA candidate Dr CN Manjunath, who is the son-in-law of former PM HD Deve Gowda.

State JDS chief HD Kumaraswamy, who is the incumbent Channapatna MLA, contested the General Elections from Mandya, and won. As a result, Channapatna will see a by-election as Kumaraswamy, now a minister in the Modi cabinet, will resign as an MLA.

Speaking to reporters in Ramanagara, Suresh clarified that he will not contest the bypolls from Channapatna, but there will be a surprise candidate will be fielded from the Congress. "I am my own enemy. I was expecting a break from electoral politics, and now I have got it. Caste, religion, emotional issues and jealousy were the reasons for my defeat. I will now work as an ordinary party worker...," he said.

Suresh said he was reluctant to contest the LS polls but the party forced him to. "If my detractors feel they have defeated me, they are living in an illusion. I am with my workers. I have not personally troubled anyone. If anyone has been offended by my actions, I apologise," he said.

BJP: FEELS LIKE TUGHLAQ ERA IS BACK IN K'TAKA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Opposition BJP slammed the State Government after miscreants stabbed two of its workers in Mangaluru when they were celebrating Narendra Modi's swearing in as the Prime Minister for the third time on Sunday night. They are threatening to protest if action is not taken against them .

BJP in its official 'X' handle said that it feels like the "Thuglak era is back in Karnataka", where shouting "Bharat Mata Ki Jai" is no longer safe. "The growing hatred for Bharat under Chief Minister Siddaramaiah is deeply alarming. BJP workers Harish Anchan and Nandakumar, who were celebrating PM Modi's electoral victory and shouting 'Bharath Mata ki Jai' in Mangaluru, were brutally stabbed by Aboobakkar, Bashir, Siddik, Monu, and 20 others," the BJP said.

Further, it stated that the stabbing highlights the deteriorating law-and-order situation in Karnataka. "The rise in violent incidents and unchecked aggression is creating an atmosphere of fear and instability. This is a stark reminder of the increasing violence and chaos, underscoring the urgent need for stronger governance and security measures to protect citizens and maintain peace," the BJP added.

State BJP president BY Vijayendra said that law and order was deteriorating in Karnataka. "This is happening because Congress government is appeasing fundamentalists and they do not fear law. If government does not take action, we need to answer them through fight in coming days," he said.

Meanwhile, BJP also condemned the attack on an ambulance driver near Nelamangala. "This is what it is happening in Congress rule. There are cases like assaulting innocent people, extortion, murders happening in the state. Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara is busy giving statements and seems to have forgotten that he is home minister," the BJP added.

Saffron party, VHP want action against accused

POLICE Commissioner Agarwal said one of the BJP workers underwent a surgery at a private hospital in the city. Harish, 41, and Nandakumar, 24, suffered knife injuries. Krishna Kumar was beaten up. All three are residents of Innoli village.

Police also booked a case against five people for shouting 'provocative slogans' and abusing people, based on a complaint by PK Abdulla of Jumma Masjid. The accused have been identified as Suresh, Binay, Subhash, Ranjit and Dhananjay.

Meanwhile, local BJP and VHP leaders condemned the attack and sought stern action against the accused.

MP-elect Capt Brijesh Chowta said similar attacks took place at Belthangady and Ullal a few days ago, but police failed to take action against the trouble-makers.

He accused the Congress of orchestrating such attacks as it is frustrated over the Lok Sabha election results. He sought a thorough inquiry and stringent action against the accused.

District in-charge minister Dinesh Gundu Rao said the police will conduct an impartial inquiry into the attack and those responsible for it will not be forgiven. "There might be provocation, but one has to maintain calm," he added.

Congress top brass will take a call on appointing Dalit as DyCM: Dr G

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara has said that the Congress high command will decide on appointing a Dalit as deputy chief minister in Karnataka. "If the party high command feels it is right to have a Dalit DyCM in Karnataka, they will appoint one," he told reporters in Bengaluru on Monday.

If the top brass feel that the administration is good, they will not make any changes, he added.

When asked if DyCM and Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) president DK Shivakumar approached AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge in this regard, Dr Parameshwara said he was not aware of it. "There is a working committee meeting happening in Delhi and the CM and DyCM will participate in it," he added.

When asked about MPs from the Backward Classes not getting representation in the Modi 3.0 cabinet, Parameshwara said, "It looks like they (BJP) do not need Dalits or people from Backward Classes communities. Many are elected from these communities on a BJP ticket... they could have considered them," he added.

The Home Minister said that the new Central Cabinet has five members from Karnataka.

"There are many issues like GST and Mekedatu that the state is facing. We will try to resolve the issues with the help from the Centre," he said.

Savadi blames Satish for Cong's poor show in Athani

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Belagavi

FORMER DyCM Laxman Savadi, who is also Athani MLA, has hit back at PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi for blaming him for the party's dismal performance in the Athani Assembly constituency in the recent Lok Sabha elections.

Savadi, who was with the BJP in the past, said the Congress got 7,000 fewer votes in Athani than what it bagged in the 2023 Assembly elections owing to the inability of Satish to capitalise on the chances he had to perform better.

Congress candidate from Chikkodi Lok Sabha seat, Priyanka Jarkiholi, polled 87,376 votes from Athani Assembly segment in the recent polls. Speaking to the media in Bagalkot on Monday, Savadi said it was necessary for Satish to first understand about the traditional voting pattern over the years in Athani before blaming anyone. Savadi said he lost the Assembly polls from Athani in 2018 but the BJP went on to gain the lead in the 2019 bypolls. So, political equations and situation would be different every time, he added. He said several reasons led to the poor consolidation of Congress votes in Athani and there was a need to assess it.

After losing Assembly polls from 2 seats, Somanna becomes minister, thanks to Shah

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru

AMIT Shah loyalist and Veerashaiva-Lingayat leader V Somanna, a first-time Lok Sabha member, has been made a minister in the Prime Minister Narendra Modi government.

Somanna, who was a minister in Karnataka, was elected from the Tumakuru Lok Sabha seat as an NDA candidate. He was desperate for this victory, coming in the back of humiliating losses in the 2023 Assembly polls from Varuna and Chamarajanagar -- the two seats he had contested on the orders of the party top leadership.

Though Congress was trying to poach him and make him its Lok Sabha candidate, Shah offered him the Tumakuru LS seat to compensate for the Assembly poll defeat.

He is the only Veerashaiva-Lingayat leader in the Modi ministry. While, Yediyurappa's son and four-time Shivamogga MP BY Raghavendra, former CMs Basavaraj Bommai and Jagadish Shettar, who too are from the same community, were in the race, they lost out.

Somanna, who is 73 and has roots in Janata Dal and Congress, has wellwishers across parties, including DCM DK Shivakumar as they both hail from Kanakapura taluk of Ramanagara district.

It is the first time since Independence that an MP from Tumakuru has been made a union minister. The only other leader from here who reached Delhi's top power structure was Jan Sangh leader late S Mallikarjunaiah, who was deputy speaker when Atal Bihari Vajpayee was Prime Minister between 1991 and 1996.

'It's message that party won't let down its people'

Here are excerpts from an interview with Somanna:

How do you feel to be in the Modi government?
I am feeling great to work along with a leader like Modi. I hope to get a good portfolio, considering my service to the party and in the state government.

Did your proximity with Shah help you get the post?
The party has given me this opportunity to complete the task it had assigned me. This is also a message that it will not let down those who faced problems for obeying the party's instructions.

Have you emerged as a parallel leader to Yediyurappa?
That thought has not crossed my mind at all.

After two losses, you won the Lok Sabha election...
It is the victory of the people and I am indebted to my voters.

Who will you give credit for your victory?
The JDS leadership - HD Deve Gowda and HD Kumaraswamy and the BJP's national and state leaders, including Yediyurappa.

What is your plan for K'taka?
I will look into them later once taking charge as minister.

NAIDU BEGINS CABINET FORMATION EXERCISE

With TDP-led NDA winning 164 seats, list of aspirants is lengthy; only 25 can be accommodated

S VISWANATH @ Vijayawada

TDP supremo and Chief Minister-designate N Chandrababu Naidu, who returned from Delhi on Monday after attending the swearing-in-ceremony of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, focused his attention on picking up his Cabinet colleagues to be sworn in along with him on June 12.

Naidu is learnt to have had a thorough discussion with the senior leaders of the party on the composition of his Cabinet, taking all factors into consideration. After the arrival of Naidu at his Undavalli residence, several TDP MLAs made a beeline to his residence in the hope of meeting party general secretary Nara Lokesh and plead with him for the inclusion of their names in the Cabinet.

The Gannavaram grounds get ready for TDP supremo N Chandrababu Naidu's swearing-in on Wednesday as chief minister of Andhra Pradesh | EXPRESS

As the TDP-led NDA won 164 of the total 175 Assembly seats, the list of aspirants is quite lengthy. With several senior leaders of the TDP, who served as ministers in Naidu's cabinet from 2014 to 19, winning the election, they are hopeful of their return to the Council of Ministers.

As only a maximum of 25 legislators could be accommodated in the Cabinet, selection of candidates has become a daunting task as it should ensure regional and social balance, a senior leader of the TDP observed.

He said prior to finalising the ministers from the TDP, the party supremo will have to consult the alliance partners JSP and BJP on the number of berths to be allotted to them.

It is learnt that Naidu is likely to have a meeting with JSP chief Pawan Kalyan and BJP leaders to discuss the Cabinet formation. He would later finalise the list of the TDP MLAs, who would be taken into the Cabinet. Reports emanated that Pawan Kalyan is likely to join the Cabinet as he wants to gain experience in administration. Lokesh too is likely to be part of the Cabinet. For the remaining 23 vacancies, there is acute competition among the MLAs.

Man stabs son to death

Bengaluru: A 27-year-old man was stabbed to death by his father over a trivial row under Annapurneshwarinagar police station limits on Monday. The accused, a realtor, had taken his daughter's two-wheeler to meet his friends on Sunday evening. After losing the vehicle key, the accused, Venkatesh, parked it near his friend's house and returned home. The victim, identified as Anjan Kumar, a resident of Muddinapalya in D Group Layout,who was in a hurry to go somewhere on Monday morning, did not see the vehicle. He asked his father and after getting to know the reason, he attacked his father with a helmet. Frustrated over this, the realtor stabbed his son to death with a kitchen knife. After stabbing, Venkatesh shifted him to hospital where he succumbed to injuries. ENS

K'taka records 80% excess rain in 10 days after monsoon sets in

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

AFTER experiencing a harsh summer, Karnataka recorded 80% excess rainfall in just 10 days, compared to the normal, after the onset of monsoon.

According to the India Meteorological Department, against the normal rainfall of 47.6 mm, the state received 85.6 mm from June 1. All districts recorded excess rainfall, barring Dakshina Kannada, Chikkamagaluru and Kodagu. They recorded a deficit of 26%, 3% and 30%, respectively. As per data, Coastal Karnataka recorded 25% excess rainfall. Against the normal rainfall of 155.6 mm, the region received 192.4 mm. North Interior Karnataka recorded the highest excess rainfall of 140%. Against the normal of 33 mm, the region received 79.3 mm. South Interior Karnataka recorded 82% excess rainfall. Against the normal of 38.5 mm, it received 70.2 mm.

Vijayapura recorded the highest excess rainfall of 329%, followed by Bengaluru Rural 272%. Ramanagara and Vijayanagara recorded 222% excess rain. Udupi recorded the least excess rainfall of 5%. Against the normal rainfall of 209.5%, the district recorded 220.1%. Followed by 14% in Haveri and Hassan.

Bengaluru Urban recorded 145% excess rainfall. Against the normal of 37 mm, from June 1-10, the state capital received 90.6 mm.

In 2023, the state recorded a deficit of 66% from June 1-14. Against the normal of 81.2 mm, the state received 27.4 mm. In 2023, Coastal Karnataka received 87.9 mm against the normal of 307.2 mm (71% deficit), North Interior Karnataka received 20.2 mm against the normal of 50.2 mm (60% deficit) and South Interior Karnataka received 21.6 mm against the normal of 62.5% (65% deficit).

IMD scientist CS Patil said monsoon arrived early this year. In some regions, it has been raining almost daily since June 1. However, after three days, there will be a decline in rainfall. "It is too early to predict whether the same will continue till the end of the season."

BJP legislature party meet to elect Odisha CM

Bhubaneswar: As Odisha waits with baited breath for its new chief minister, the legislators of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) will meet on Tuesday to elect their leader, paving way for formation of the first ever government of the saffron party in the state. The leader of the BJP legislature party will take oath as chief minister at a state level function at Janata Maidan to be attended by dignitaries, including Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Home Minister Amit Shah and Defence Minister Rajnath Singh. As suspense over the new CM continues, three names have been making the rounds. Brajarajnagar MLA Suresh Pujari is the front runner followed by state BJP president Manmohan Samal and former minister KV Singhdeo. ENS

Aide hacks Mysuru seer to death

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

IN a tragic incident, 92-year-old Annadaneshwara Mutt seer Shivananda Swamiji was hacked to death allegedly by his personal assistant in his room on the mutt premises in Mysuru on Monday. Ravi (60), who tried to commit suicide by consuming poison after the crime, was admitted to hospital.

Police said the seer was hacked to death with a grass-cutting sword in the morning. Relatives of the seer, who reside behind the mutt adjacent to Teresian College on Male Mahadeshwara Road in Siddartha Nagar, found the seer lying in a pool of blood around 9.30 am. They informed the Nazarbad police.

According to the seer's nephew, Lokesh, Ravi attacked the seer for advising him to behave properly. "Ravi, a resident of Hukkalageri village in T Narasipura taluk, was appointed to assist the seer around two-and-a-half-years ago. He was loyal to us. He also used to help the seer in performing puja and other rituals. On Sunday, he had beaten his wife when she came to the mutt for money to buy groceries. The seer, who had come to know about the incident, scolded him and advised him to mend his ways which enraged Ravi," Lokesh said.

Every day, Ravi used to bring food for the seer from the relative's house. "On Monday, the seer's relatives were waiting for Ravi to take breakfast to the seer. But, when he did not come even after 9.30 am, they had called him over phone. As he did not respond properly, Lokesh, his wife and their son went to the mutt and found the seer lying in his bedroom in a pool of blood," the police said. City Police Commissioner Ramesh Banoth said, "Ravi was found drunk and is also suspected to have consumed poison. We have admitted him to KR Hospital and question him after he recovers," he said.

MBBS student hangs self in college hostel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A 22-year-old first year MBBS student committed suicide by hanging himself in his hostel room located in the premises of Bowring and Lady Curzon Medical College and Hospital, on Monday. The deceased has been identified as Lokendra Kumar from Rajasthan.

The police said that Kumar didn't attend the class on Monday. The incident came to light when his roommates returned from the class at around 2 pm. As Kumar didn't open the door, they broke the door, only to find him hanging from the ceiling fan. They brought him down and rushed him to the hospital before alerting the police.

Upon receiving the information, the police rushed to the spot and shifted the body for an autopsy. "No suicide note has been found at the spot. When questioned, his friends and teachers said that they didn't know the reason for his extreme step. More details will be known once his parents arrive in Bengaluru from Rajasthan," the Commercial Street police, who are investigating the case added.

NAVEEN NEEDS TO PUT BJD BACK IN FIGHTING SHAPE

THE summer of 2024 was supposed to be Naveen Patnaik's perfect season to walk into the sunset. Instead, the Biju Janata Dal supremo now has a heavy cross to bear. For the first time in 24 years, he will be among the opposition benches when the new state assembly convenes in Odisha. His shock defeat has not just thrown the BJD in at the deep end, the regional party might well be looking at an existential crisis too.

For the outgoing chief minister, it presents more challenges than one. The BJD is mandated to play the opposition's role in the assembly, for which Naveen will have to take up a critical task. A constant criticism he faced after the pandemic was his absence from the floor of the assembly. That must change if his party is to take on the BJP. The performance of the principal opposition party and its leader will be under close watch for the next five years.

The real challenge will be outside the legislature. The BJD looks to be in disarray, grappling with the loss and growing murmurs about accountability. In the last five years, the BJD was shadow-run by bureaucrat-turned-politician V K Pandian, Naveen's close aide. His diktat was supreme, so much so that even senior party leaders with decades of experience answered to him. It was he who formulated the election strategy and candidate selection. However, after the BJP reaped electoral dividend by targeting Pandian for his 'outsider' status, the former bureaucrat quit active politics. While this may not be the last time one hears from him yet, the BJD chief will have to look forward. It is upon him to put the pieces together and, clearly, age is not on his side. The 77-year-old has been the singular face of the BJD since its inception 27 years ago and, as is the case with most regional parties, he did not groom a strong second line of leadership.

Many of his current crop of legislators are young and first-timers, while the seasoned faces are sidelined. So the biggest threat will be from the BJP. The saffron party, with 78 legislators, is unlikely to sit quiet with the win. Naveen is certain to face an uphill task to keep his flock together in the days to come.

A NEW ERA OF TENNIS RIVALRIES HAS ARRIVED

IT'S funny how these things work out. On the French Open's second day, Rafa Nadal, owner of 14 men's titles in Paris, lost in the first round. By the time the competition ended, the heir apparent had announced himself in style. Carlos Alcaraz was thought to be the next in line as early as 2021. By the end of that year, he had punctuated his ascendancy by winning the ATP Next Gen event. In 2022, he claimed the US Open. He backed it with Wimbledon 10 months later. On Sunday, the few remaining doubters also saw the light. Forget the future, the Spaniard is very much the present of men's tennis.

Nadal and Novak Djokovic, who was replaced as the world no 1 during the tournament, remain on the circuit. But there can be no doubt that the baton has passed hands. The era of the Big Three is over and Alcaraz is the figurehead of the next gen. The generation will also contain the irrepressible talents of Jannik Sinner, who won the Australian Open earlier this year. Alcaraz beat Sinner—the rivalry has a portmanteau, Sincaraz—in the semifinal, but just like the Big Three era, this rivalry will not be one-sided. Throw in the likes of Daniil Medvedev, Stefanos Tsitsipas and Alexander Zverev, otherwise known as the Sandwich generation, and men's tennis is in a healthy place right now. With Djokovic nursing an injury and Nadal perhaps preferring to bow out at the Paris Olympics, you can make the case that Wimbledon 2024 could be the first Slam this century without the Big Three.

Considering that elite sport is cyclic, it's fitting that women's tennis is also seeing the birth of a new super-champion. Yes, Iga Swiatek had to save a match point in the second round, but there can be no doubt that she is on her way to becoming a Serena-Williams-like figure. At just 23, she has already won five majors, including four in Paris. Interestingly, the next Big Three could come in the women's sport, with Aryna Sabalenka and Elena Rybakina identified as the two players capable of challenging Swiatek. We may even get to see at least one of those battles at Wimbledon, where Swiatek has traditionally been at her weakest. Buckle up, a new era is here.

THE gains made by the far right in last week's European elections have sent leaders across the continent into a cold sweat. The French president called for snap elections to the National Assembly weeks before the Paris Olympics. The German chancellor resisted pressure to follow suit. The Belgian prime minister held back tears while announcing his resignation. European Commission president Ursula von der Leyen, who is seeking a second term, said she wanted to work closely with parties that are "pro-European, pro-Ukraine, pro-rule-of-law". Like in India, this was a vote for recalibration. The next stocktaking will be in the UK, which goes to the polls on July 4.

Had the Cong been pragmatic enough to engage with Nitish Kumar, the results could have been quite different. But even a resurging RJD couldn't stop NDA from winning Bihar

THE N-FACTOR IN POLITICAL CALCULUS

D M DIWAKAR

Honorary Director and Professor at Development Research Institute, Jalsain; former Director, A N Sinha Institute of Social Studies, Patna

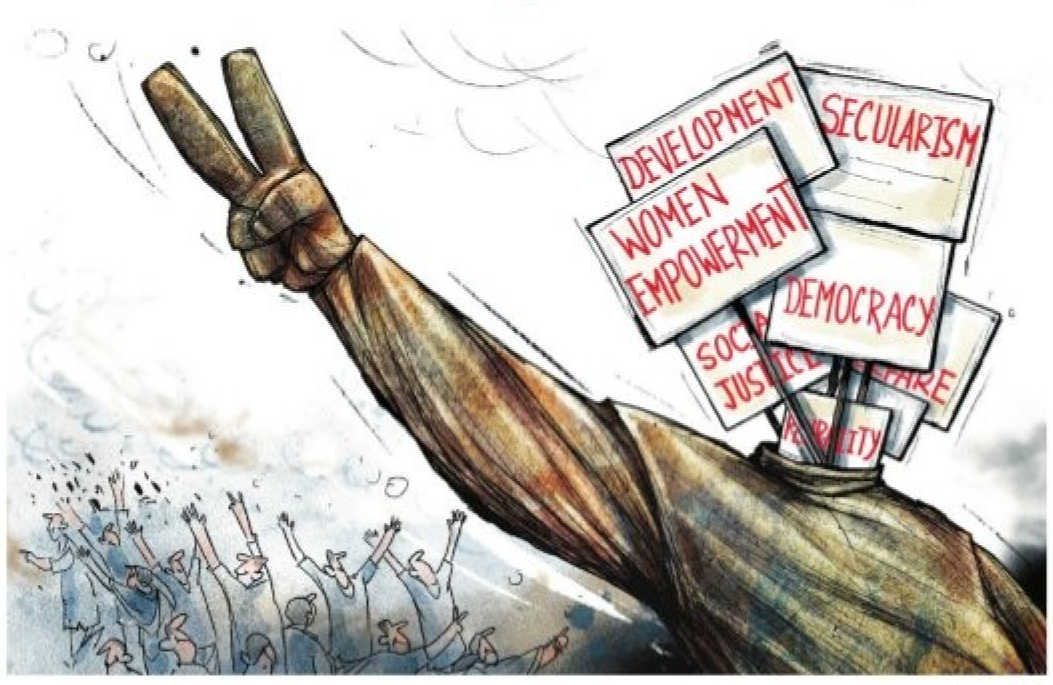
BIHAR continues to confound keen observers of the state's politics. Since the NDA had won 39 seats out of the state's 40 seats in 2019, it was the general expectation that the alliance's seats would decline in view of a growing anti-incumbency sentiment. An energetic campaign by the INDIA bloc had added to the expectation.

There were other reasons, too. The JDU-RJD government of Nitish Kumar as chief minister and Tejashwi as his deputy had successfully conducted a caste survey in the state in 2023 and carried it to its logical conclusion by raising the reservation limit from 50 percent to 65 percent. This became a part of Rahul Gandhi's national campaign during his Bharat Jodo Yatra too. Since the caste survey was raised primarily by Tejashwi and then supported by others, the political dividend from it was expected to be credited into the INDIA account.

Another factor expecting a better turnout for INDIA was mass employment given to 5 lakh school teachers across caste categories in one go, a move that had been pending for long. Tejashwi brought up the issues of unemployment and inflation while campaigning at more than 200 rallies despite his adverse health condition. The RJD, known originally for its Mulsim-Yadav support base and leadership, has been including Rajput, Koeri, Dhanuk and Dalits as well. This election, it initiated the process to become an 'A to Z party' by including Bhumihars. Tickets were given to the upper castes, extremely backward classes and Dalits, too. It also accommodated Vikassheel Insaan Party leader Mukesh Sahani.

As things turned out, the NDA won 30 seats, with the BJP and JDU getting 12 each, the Lok Janshakti Party (Ram Vilas) bagging five, and the Hindustani Awam Morcha (Secular) one. INDIA won nine seats, out of which the RJD bagged four, the Congress three, the Communist Party of India (Marxist- Leninist) Liberation two, and one to an independent candidate. In 2019, the RJD could not get even a single seat despite contesting 19 and having 15.68 percent of the votes; this time, its vote share increased significantly to 22.14 percent, but it did not translate proportionally into seats in an election of smaller margins.

The margins of some winning NDA candidates shrank this time. Giriraj Singh had won in 2019 by a margin of 4.22 lakh votes, but this time bettered his closest opponent with only 81,480 votes. Radha Mohan Singh got elected by a margin of 88,287 votes this year, against 2.93 lakh in 2019. Rajiv Ranjan 'Lalan' Singh won the previous election by a margin of 1.67 lakh, but this time could win by 80,870 only, about half the earlier margin. Rajiv Pratap Rudy won this time by a narrow margin of 13,661 votes, whereas he had won five years ago by 1.39 lakh votes.



SOURAV ROY

In neighbouring Uttar Pradesh, the Samajwadi Party did extremely well and INDIA reached a tally of 43 while cornering substantial chunks of Muslim, Yadav and Dalit votes, as Mayawati lost her grip over her vote bank because of being away from the power for long.

But there is no one quite like Nitish Kumar to divide secular votes across social categories. So, though it was easier to polarise anti-incumbent voters in favour of INDIA in UP, this was not the case in Bihar. The Bihar chief minister has a secular image and access to the women vote bank, because of his policies of reservation in panchayati raj institutions, liquor prohibition, women-centric welfare schemes including the distribution of cycles, dresses, scholarships and even sanitary napkins. He also enjoys a relatively clean image in development and justice.

His masterstrokes in social engineering strategy to divide the other backward classes further into extremely backward classes, and Dalits into Mahadalits provide him with dependable vote banks despite coming from a smaller caste base of Kurmis, who account for merely 2.89 percent of the state's population. The BJP could not access these vote banks. Therefore, Nitish Kumar was important for the BJP to weaken INDIA's vote base.

It was Nitish who initiated the process of uniting opposition leaders much in advance of the Lok Sabha elections. Tejashwi accompanied him to meetings with opposition leaders, be it Mamata Banerjee, K Chandrasekhar Rao, M K Stalin, N Chandrababu Naidu or Arvind Kejriwal. INDIA meetings were held in Patna, Mumbai and Delhi. However, the Congress did not spend the expected attention to ensure speedy decisions by the alliance. The Congress remained busy with the late-2023 assembly elections and Rahul Gandhi's yatras, which paid political dividends to the Congress. But it was the end of the show for Nitish when Mallikarjun Kharge was made chairman of INDIA and Nitish was offered the convener's post, which he declined. Had INDIA taken Nitish into confidence, the situation would have been completely different. The Congress doubted his credential because of his shifting positions time and again. And Nitish proved it right by shifting to the NDA.

When Nitish was active in trying to unite possible INDIA partners, the BJP went aggressive to the extent that Amit Shah announced that the BJP's door would be closed to Nitish forever. But the BJP soon realised it would ruin its chances in Bihar without Nitish, partly because of bickering in the BJP's state unit. It was waiting for Nitish to leave INDIA, which the Congress kind of facilitated with a show of political arrogance.

This was the second time. The first was during 2015-17, when Nitish was being talked about as a prime ministerial probable, but the Congress high command did not feel necessary to engage with him when he was trying hard to seek appointment with the Congress president. Post results, INDIA offered the deputy PM's post too, but by then it was too late. Had the Congress shown a little pragmatism and farsightedness early on, the BJP would not have been back in power.

The people have voted the BJP out from Ayodhya with a clear message that India is a secular country. They have voted for democratic values, plurality, social justice and autonomy of constitutional institutions. Now it is a litmus test for the NDA allies to respect the people's mandate. People have also voted for a strong opposition. Thus, the task ahead is to have checks and balances in favour of a democracy for the people.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE MP FROM THRISSUR

C P SURENDRAN

DEAR Suresh Gopi, we have one thing in common: Thrissur. I come from that town. I don't know if I will go back to it, though.

You are the elected MP, representing the BJP, and now the people of Thrissur and Kerala at large. The first time I saw you in person was around 7 pm on an April night so hot it might have dropped from Venus, and just as bright with all the white lights in the world, most of them shining on your face. The place was next to a temple in a residential area. You were making a speech on what you would do for the town if elected.

The last I saw of you was on channels on a hotter Sunday night, taking oath as a minister of state in the third Modi cabinet. What a summer it has been for you.

In 2019, you lost by over 1,00,000 votes in Thrissur (population 33,51,000, 58 percent Hindu, 27 percent Christian, the rest Muslim), traditionally a leftist bastion with an occasional lapse in favour of the Congress. Five years later, you won with a majority of over a lakh. The Left has accused you of stealing Christian votes by gifting a crown of gold to Mother Mary in the Our Lady of Lourdes Cathedral. But I believe it was a goodwill gesture, and only you could have done it.

If any other candidate were so open about getting gods of different faiths to rally behind him/her, they would have perhaps lost their deposit altogether. Contrary to general perception, Kerala is a cruel place. The culture mob, to the last person, is anti-patriarchal, though some of them may be living off their father's ill-made wealth. You are nothing if not a (benevolent) patriarch.

My respect for you is primarily based on the quality of the nearly perverse persistence with which you stuck to that image. You are for god, order, Mohan Lal, and the BJP. And all of it somewhat makes sense because, as hundreds of needy men and women would testify, you are well-intentioned at heart.

Just like the roles in your movies—most of them hits, especially those in which you are a police commissioner or a vigilante forced, late in his life, to fight for justice. You are Kerala's friendly, overweight, sentimental Spiderman. Kerala could do with more like you.

Which brings me to the point. Notwithstanding your minister's post, there are things you could do to help your constituency.

You have, among other things, promised to extend the Metro service from Kochi to Thrissur. This is a necessary idea. The highway traffic is so bad that the 75-odd km take forever. Your other promises include an improved market square and a more organised station for private buses. All good.

WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

> You have, among other things, promised to extend the Metro service from Kochi to Thrissur. Your other promises include an improved market square and a more organised station for private buses. These are great starting points, but there is more to be done

But.

Thrissur is a wealthy town. The place is littered with vast mansions of gold and jewellery merchants with private jets and helicopters in their backyards. Half the town's population is abroad, mostly in the Middle East. (The other half are shopkeepers or professors—petty bourgeoisie and bourgeoisie, both classes reassuringly devoted to the cause of the revolution and chit funds.)

The younger generation is migrating in hoards to Canada, Japan and Germany. Whole populations of senior citizens wander around in their big houses in deserted colonies, forgetful of who they are, as in a Marquez novel. Senior community centres and services would be a merciful intervention. The government can initiate these centres, or encourage private initiatives to make the town a little more friendly to the old.

The low-lying areas of Thrissur are prone to flooding, as happened in 2018. One reason for this is that the drainage of water is impossible as gutters and sewers are nonexistent or inadequate. Often, residents block drains with concrete as these pass under their gates. Free flow of rainwater is essential. This means coordinated efforts with the municipal authorities.

Thrissur is a carnivorous town. Toxic waste piles up on streets in ominous proportions. Viral fevers break out with the regularity of festivals— the town is particularly prone to this cultural epidemic, hosting hundreds of events a year. While nothing can be done about this, the clearance of waste and its recycling demand urgent intervention.

Thrissur has three great medical colleges/hospitals: two private ones and a government-run one. With expatriate help, more such hospitals could be set up. This should transform the town into a medical tourism hub and help generate jobs and enterprises at all levels.

All these must seem rather micro. But the traditional politics of Kerala is too ideological and abstract to focus on the basics. Things happen. But they happen rather on their own will. Then they stop—again on their own will. For instance, the connectivity to Nedumbassery Airport used to be good in terms of public transport. Direct air-conditioned and ordinary buses plied regularly from the town to the airport. The service is down to two or three buses now. Thousands travel from the town to the airport daily. Perhaps, as the metaphoric minister for Thrissur, you could call for an open contest of urban town planners, and choose the best scheme.

Thrissur is a temple town. And you are a great believer. But you know how gods are: they keep away from stuff like drainage inspection.

The very best to you.

No autocracy

Ref: Recalibrating the new Modi govt to coalition politics (Jun 10). The people of India have given a mandate to the PM to walk away from his autocratic style of governance. Control over media, arm-twisting of dissent in public spheres and misuse of democratic institutions are major contributors to the BJP's minority status. As the author rightly said, the PM must be a uniter-in-chief to keep the government moving in the right direction.

Adaptability test

Ref: Coalition and continuity in Modi 3 (Jun 10). The third NDA government is a real test of adaptability for PM Narendra Modi. Nitish Kumar and Chandrababu Naidu are essential partners and leaders with ideologies quite different from that of the BJP. If the coalition is to succeed, it must be ensured that no difference of opinion erupts between them.

Unfair demand

The NCP on Sunday turned down the BJP's offer to make its leader Praful Patel a minister of state in the new NDA government. Why was the NCP proposing Praful Patel instead of the newly-elected MP Sunil Tatkare? With just one elected MP in LS, it is not fair on the part of the NCP to insist on a cabinet berth.

First Cabinet meet clears 3 crore housing for poor

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

HOURS after releasing the 17th installment of PM Kisan Nidhi for over 9 crore farmers, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday chaired the first meeting of his newly formed 72-member cabinet at his residence.

In a second major decision, the Cabinet chaired by the PM, approved the government assistance for the construction of 3 crore houses for the poor under the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojna (PMAY) in one go.

In the just-concluded elections for the 18th Lok Sabha, the PM promised to ensure houses for the poor in a much larger way. The new houses will be equipped with kitchen gas line, water and electricity connections.

"It has been decided in the Cabinet meeting today to provide assistance to three crore additional rural and urban households keeping in mind the increase in the number of eligible families," an official said, adding the government was committed to ensuring houses to all poor families in the country.

He said the government has been implementing the PMAY since 2015-16 and is determined to provide assistance to deserving rural and urban households for the construction of houses with basic amenities. "Under PMAY, a total of 4.21 crore houses have so far been completed for the eligible poor families under the housing schemes in the last 10 years and more than 3 crore will again be constructed," he added.

All such houses would have basic amenities such as toilets, LPG and electricity connection and functional taps through convergence with other schemes of the Central and state governments.

Today was the first meeting of the Union Cabinet which held at the Prime Minister's 7, Lok Kalyan Marg residence. It was attended by ministers belonging to all BJP allies in the NDA government.

MAJOR DECISION

Govt to provide assistance to construct 3 crore rural and urban houses under Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana (PMAY)

Govt is implementing PMAY since 2015-16 to provide assistance to the eligible rural and urban households for construction of houses with basic amenities. Total 4.21 CR houses have been completed in 10 years

Houses constructed are provided with basic amenities such as toilets, LPG connection, and electricity connection, among others

'HOUSE CAT' AT OATH CEREMONY

BJP MP Durga Das Uikey's oath-taking ceremony made a splash on Monday for the unlikeliest of reasons—a video of a shadowy animal sauntering in the Rashtrapati Bhavan corridor that some wagered was a big cat, maybe even a leopard. The Delhi Police, however, said in a statement on 'X' that the animal seen in the video is a "common house cat". As speculation swirled and the video of Uikey signing the register and walking towards President Droupadi Murmu with the mysterious four-legged animal in the background was circulated endlessly, a Delhi Police official said that there are only dogs and "domestic" cats inside the presidential palace. Notably, the 330 acres of land at the President's Estate harbours a rich biodiversity with open spaces, forest cover, contributing to support rich flora and fauna. Seeking to rein in the speculations, the Delhi Police said, "Some media channels and social media handles are showing an animal image captured during the live telecast of oath taking ceremony held at the Rashtrapati Bhavan yesterday, claiming it to be a wild animal. These facts are not true, the animal captured on camera is a common house cat. Please don't adhere to such frivolous rumours." Ujwal Jalali

PM's pep talk to staff: Make it people's PMO

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

A day after assuming charge, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday said his office should become an institution of service and become the "people's PMO."

He maintained that the PMO has become a catalytic agent for infusing new energy and dynamism into the system.

When the PM reached his office on Monday, his staff welcomed him by clapping. The first file that he signed related the Kisan Samridhi Nidhi running into Rs 20,000 crore for farmers. "Ours is a government fully committed to Kisan Kalyan.(farmers' welfare). It is therefore fitting that the first file that I signed on taking charge is related to the farmer welfare," he said.

After his final OK, the way was paved for the release of Rs 20,000 crore as the 17th installment of PM Kisan Nidhi to reach the bank accounts of 9.3 crore farmers. "We want to keep working even more for the farmers and the agriculture sector in the times to come," said the PM.

"Our only goal is 'nation first' and the only motivation is 'Viksit Bharat', Modi told his staff. He told them to set an example in performance. "My every moment is for the country and I have promised the nation to work around-the-clock to achieve the goal of India becoming a developed country by 2047," he said.

"These elections are a stamp of approval on the efforts of government towards reaching higher goals," he said, adding that his government meant a new energy of strength and resolve. Highlighting his commitment, the PM said it was not that Modi alone ran the government. "Thousands of minds come together to shoulder various responsibilities. The citizens become witnesses to the magnificence of abilities."

He told the staff that as a part of a team, they have no time constraints and limits to thinking. "The entire nation has faith in this team and together we will achieve the target of Nation First with one intention of Viksit Bharat 2047."

Oppn decides to contest for deputy speaker post

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

AS the first session of the 18th Lok Sabha is expected to begin in the third week of June with the oath-taking by the newly elected candidates as members of the House, it is keenly watched whether the House will get a Deputy Speaker or not. With the INDIA bloc parties having an impressive number of 234 members in the new Lok Sabha, the opposition leaders are pitching for a deputy speaker, a post that had been vacant for the last five years.

While the outgoing 17th Lok Sabha was unprecedented in functioning without a deputy speaker, the Constitution mandates the election of the Deputy Speaker of the Lok Sabha soon after the Speaker is elected, says former Lok Sabha Secretary-General P DT Achary.

He said that the Deputy Speaker post is a constitutional position; by convention, it goes to the Opposition. "The Constitution guarantees an important place for the Deputy Speaker in the parliamentary system. Not appointing one was unconstitutional," said Achary.

Article 93 of the Constitution states that "the House of the People (Lok Sabha) must choose the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker as soon as may be."

"The Deputy Speaker post is a constitutional position; by convention, it goes to the Opposition. The Opposition should claim the post in the new Lok Sabha. It is also an elected post. The practice has been to elect the speaker first and within a week, the deputy speaker will also be elected," said Achary.

An Opposition leader said that they will pitch for the Deputy Speaker post as it has been held by opposition parties in the past. "During the UPA rule from 2004-2014, the deputy Speaker was held by the opposition BJP-led NDA. Most governments have been following the tradition of choosing a member from the Opposition as a consensus candidate for the post," said the leader.

In 1956, the first Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru proposed Sardar Hukam Singh, an Opposition Akali Dal MP, as Deputy Speaker, and most governments have continued this tradition.

According to the Rules of Procedure and Conduct of Business in LS, the deputy speaker enjoys the same powers as the Speaker when they preside over a sitting House.

Priority is to stop violence in Manipur, says RSS chief

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat, in a stern message on Monday, reminded the Modi-led NDA dispensation that the law and order problem plaguing the eastern state of Manipur must be addressed on priority.

The message from the chief of the RSS -- considered to be the ruling BJP's ideological mentor -- will have a substantial weight on the newly-formed NDA government led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Bhagwat, while speaking at a function organised by RSS at its headquarters in Nagpur, said Manipur has been waiting for peace for a year. The RSS chief said, "The state remained peaceful for the last 10 years but suddenly the gun culture returned with more vigour. It is important to resolve the conflict on priority."

Bhagwat said since the elections are over, "We have to think about the problems facing the country by freeing ourselves from the poll frenzy. Manipur has been waiting for peace for a year. It has to be considered on priority."

Earlier in the day, an advance security team of Manipur Police that had gone to Jiribam to prepare for the visit of Chief Minister N Biren Singh came under attack by unidentified armed miscreants. Two policemen, including the driver of the vehicle, were injured. Singh is expected to visit the violence-hit town on Tuesday.

The Meitei-Kuki conflict erupted on May 3 last year, the day Kuki people, supported by militants, launched an attack on Meitei villages. On Saturday, Governor Anusuiya Uikey met CM Biren Singh and took stock of the situation in Jiribam district, asking him to take all possible steps to control the situation there.

Meanwhile, Bhagwat also said that decorum should be maintained in the conduct of elections, which was not followed in the recently concluded poll campaign. "It is important to follow morality because our country faces many challenges," he added.

He said, "There are two sides in Parliament to bring forth both the aspects of an issue. One side can bring forth one aspect and the other side can bring out another aspect, so that whatever happens is absolutely right."

ADITYA-L1 DATA SHOWS SUN HEATING UP

PURAN CHOUDHARY
@Bengaluru

THE Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) has revealed the data captured by the Aditya-L1 satellite – India's maiden mission to the Sun and has warned that the brightest star in the ecosystem is moving towards the solar maximum, giving rise to enhanced activity. "Several active regions are visible around the equatorial region. The active region -- AR13664 -- on the Sun, during its passage between May 8-15, 2024, erupted several X-class and M-class flares, which were associated with Coronal Mass Ejections (CMEs). These produced a major geomagnetic storm on May 11, 2024," the space agency said on Monday.

This geomagnetic storm was of the highest intensity in the last two decades. ISRO released photos of the Sun captured through the Solar Ultra-Violet Imaging Telescope (SUIT) and the Visible Emission Line Coronagraph (VELC) payload onboard the solar observatory satellite that showed the full disk images of how the solar flares occurred.

The mission was aimed at studying the Sun comprehensively and in turn protecting Indian satellites from being burnt out by solar flares. The seven payloads are meant to observe the solar atmosphere, mainly chromosphere and corona. ISRO scientists said with the help of the data recorded during May, they were able to protect more than 50 satellites, which cost Rs 50,000 crore.

The scientists said the recorded regions signify magnetically active regions on the Sun's surface and the large solar flares may originate in these active regions due to changes in magnetic field. The payloads are also studying how the solar flares heat the chromosphere and how the energy is deposited which will aid in tracking the long-term solar behaviour.

However, ISRO admitted that during the solar storm two of its remote-sensing instruments, the SUIT and VELC were in their baking and calibration modes and couldn't observe the solar activity on May 10-11. The space agency reported that the VELC instrument too carried out observations in one of the spectroscopic channels for the emission line 5303 Angstrom, which can observe the the relatively million times faint structures in the solar corona.

FOILED SMUGGLING

Customs officials foiled a smuggling attempt at Nagpur international airport by seizing gold bars, electronic gadgets, and foreign-origin cigarettes, all valued at over ₹37 lakh, from two passengers who arrived from Sharjah.

Kshatriya stir in Gujarat cost BJP seats in UP & Raj

Rajkot BJP MP Rupala excluded from Modi cabinet after his remark during poll campaign

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

THIS Lok Sabha election has been no less than a boomerang for Rajkot BJP MP Parshottam Rupala; his comment on the Kshatriya community ignited agitation in Gujarat midstream polls. Another effect was unpredictable: While the Gujarat BJP did not suffer losses, there were setbacks in neighbouring states for the party, sources said.

Post-polls, speculation intensified that Rupala was excluded from the Modi team-III owing to his gratuitous remark. Rupala comes from the powerful Patidar community. Sources said Porbandar party MP Mansukh Mandaviya – he too belongs to the Patidar community — has been repeated to prevent the community from turning against the party in Gujarat following Rupala's exclusion.

The strength of Gujarat MPs in the Modi government has come down to six, one less than in Modi's second term. A three-term Rajya Sabha member, Rupala served as a minister in Modi's previous governments. From 2016 to 2021, he was the Union minister of state for agriculture, farmers' welfare, and panchayati raj, and from July 2021, he rose to become the Union minister of fisheries, animal husbandry, and dairying.

Sources said the Kshatriya movement against Rupala also angered the community in Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh. The result was that what seemed to be an easy victory for the party in the two states turned into defeat in many constituencies.

"Patidar votes are decisive in Gujarat, crucial as they are in more than 10 of the state's 26 seats. Perhaps that's why the BJP did not replace Rupala midway the election campaign. Some BJP leaders felt that Patidar votes would be lost if the BJP replaced Rupala, said a state BJP leader.

"Probably BJP did not expect this outpouring of Kshatryia angst outside the state. Rupala's exclusion from the Modi cabinet is aimed at assuaging the hurt in the community and stem any further damage in the state," he added.

Not only Rupala but Devu Singh Chauhan also has been dropped from Team Modi 3.0. Sources say he is likely to be given a more prominent position within the Gujarat BJP organization. Belonging to the OBC Kshatriya community, Chauhan's appointment could address the community's resentment against the Gujarat BJP. Sources suggest that if Devu Singh is made the state party chief, it could stabilize the party.

40 MLAs of Ajit, Shinde in touch with Cong: LoP

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

CONGRESS MLA and leader of Opposition in the Maharashtra Assembly Vijay Wadettiwar has claimed that 40 MLAs of CM Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena and DCM Ajit Pawar-led NCP are eager for "ghar wapsi" (homecoming).

Wadettiwar's claim drew its strength from the Lok Sabha election results, which he said, demonstrated in which direction the wind was blowing in the state. He forecast that the impact would persist well into the assembly elections.

"We are confident that Maha Vikas Aghadi – an alliance of Congress, Sharad Pawar's NCP and Uddhav Thaceray-led Shiv Sena -- will return to power in Maharashtra," Wadettiwar said. "The trend of Lok Sabha elections shows that MVA was ahead in 150 state assembly segments while Mahayuti took leads in 130 of them. The state has a 288-member assembly.

He said 40 MLAs of the other Shiv Sena and NCP factions "realized" that the MVA was coming to power. "That's the reason they have been calling their original party leaders with Gharvapsi requests," Wadettiwar said.

Sharad Pawar-led NCP's state president Jayant also confirmed that some MLAs belonging to the other faction have sent the feelers.

Sources said such MLAs helped the original parties in the Lok Sabha elections. "We are with the BJP for protection from Central agencies. The BJP is no more as powerful as it was in 2014 and 2019. If BJP alliance partners, mainly the JD (U) and TDP, take a different route, the Modi government can collapse," said a senior leader of the Ajit Pawar faction.

"The ruling Mahayuti is a stopgap arrangement. We have no filial ties to the BJP; what we have is a working relationship," said the Ajit-Pawar faction leader. "Our ideologies don't match. By remaining with BJP, we lost our secular Dalit, tribal and minority vote bank. We want to regain that," he said.

After poll drubbing, BJP faces Raj dilemma, likely to rejig state party

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

AFTER facing a setback in Rajasthan in the Lok Sabha elections, the BJP is gearing up for significant changes in the state. Sources said some senior leaders will be relieved of their current responsibilities, while others will be assigned new roles.

Despite the party's weak performance in the state, the party leadership has appointed four MPs from the state to the cabinet. Among the prominent leaders, former Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla is not clear about his position. Some reports suggest he may be reappointed.

Birla is considered close to both Modi and Amit Shah, and during his tenure as Speaker, he made several significant decisions. Due to his working style, Birla maintains good rapport with opposition parties. Given that the BJP does not have a majority, the party leadership is likely to want a trusted confidant like Birla as the Speaker.

On the other hand, MP CP Joshi could be removed as the state party president. Earlier discussions suggested he could be given a place in the Modi cabinet, but his name was not among the ministers who took oath with the PM on Sunday. Apart from the party's poor performance, another reason for this change is the need to balance local caste equations.

Both Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma and CP Joshi belong to the Brahmin community, prompting the BJP to consider appointing a state president from a different community.

If party sources are to be believed, potential candidates for the role include members of the OBC, Jat, and Rajput communities. The biggest question is what role CP Joshi will play after leaving the state president post. Joshi managed the campaign and logistics of many seats in Odisha during the Lok Sabha elections, where the BJP performed well. Indications are that he could be appointed in charge of another state. Meanwhile, Rajya Sabha MP Madan Rathore, a contender from the OBC community, is being considered for the state president position.

EC: Bypolls to 13 assembly seats in 7 states on July 10

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Election Commission of India (ECI) announced on Monday the schedule for conducting by-polls in 13 assembly segments across seven states, including four in West Bengal, three in Himachal Pradesh, and two in Uttarakhand.

Voting will take place on July 10, with vote counting scheduled for July 13.

These by-polls are necessitated by vacancies created either due to the deaths or resignations of incumbent members.

The assembly seats up for by-polls include Rupauli (Bihar), Raiganj, Ranaghat Dakshin, Bagda, and Maniktala (all in West Bengal), Vikravandi (Tamil Nadu), Amarwara (Madhya Pradesh), Badrinath, and Manglaur (Uttarakhand), Jalandhar West (Punjab), and Dehra, Hamirpur, and Nalagarh (Himachal Pradesh).

According to the official statement by the ECI, the notification for the elections will be issued on June 14. The last date for filing nomination papers is June 21, with the scrutiny of poll papers scheduled for June 24 and the last date for the withdrawal of nomination papers set for June 26. The ECI emphasized that voting for the by-polls will be conducted on July 10, with the counting of votes slated for July 13.

The poll panel further stated that these elections must be completed before July 15.

Mann wades into Kangana slapgate row

CHANDIGARH: Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann on Monday said Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) woman constable Kulwinder Kaur, who allegedly slapped actor and BJP MP-elect Kangana Ranaut, might have been angry over the actor's previous statements on the farmers' stir. Mann also ticked off the actor over her remarks on "terrorism." He said whether one is a film actor or an MP, it is wrong to term the entire Punjab a "terrorist" state. "On every issue, you say that they are terrorists and separatists. If farmers hold protests, they are called terrorists. It is wrong," he added. ENS

Nawaz Sharif greets Modi

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

FORMER Pakistan Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif on Monday congratulated Narendra Modi in the first communication between the estranged neighbours after the latter took oath as India's Prime Minister for a record-equalling third term.

"My warm felicitations to Modi Ji on assuming office for the third time. Your party's success in recent elections reflects the confidence of the people in your leadership. Let us replace hate with hope and seize the opportunity to shape the destiny of the two billion people of South Asia," Sharif wrote on X. Responding to Sharif's message, Modi reiterated that India has always stood for peace. "Appreciate your message, Nawaz Sharif. The people of India have always stood for peace, security and progressive ideas. Advancing the well-being and security of our people shall always remain our priority," Modi said.

Pakistan Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif also extended his wishes to Modi. "Felicitations to @narendramodi on taking oath as the Prime Minister of India," Shehbaz Sharif wrote on X.

Pakistan downgraded ties with India after the Centre stripped Jammu and Kashmir of special status and bifurcated it into two Union Territories.

However, of late, the Pakistani leadership has shown some indications that it is ready to explore better ties with India. Recently, Nawaz Sharif blamed Pakistan for violating the Lahore Peace Agreement signed with India.

Cop injured as militants strike CM's security team, situation tense in Manipur

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

SUSPECTED militants ambushed an advance security team of Manipur Chief Minister N Biren Singh on Monday, leaving a police constable injured. According to the police, the attack was carried out at around 10:30 am on National Highway 37 in Kangpokpi district when the team was heading to Jiribam – the latest site of the ethnic conflict between Meiteis and Kuki-Zo tribals.

Singh is set to leave for the town in a chopper on Tuesday to take stock of the conflict situation. The injured constable, who is a driver, is admitted at a hospital in the state capital Imphal. He sustained bullet wounds.

After visiting him, Singh told the media, "The incident is very unfortunate and highly condemnable. It is an attack on the chief minister and the people of the state. So, the state government has to do something."

He added that he would consult his colleagues before arriving at any decision on the actions against the perpetrators of the crime.

A senior government official told this newspaper the CM had verbally assured the leaders of a Joint Action Committee (JAC) about his visit to Jiribam.

The JAC was formed after the recent killing of a 59-year-old man from the Meitei community. "The CM had assured that he would visit Jiribam by tomorrow (Tuesday). An advance party of his security, including police personnel, was travelling to Jiribam when this unwarranted incident happened," the official said.

"Preparation is going on in Jiribam for the CM's visit. People are expecting him. He will talk to senior officials and meet the affected people, leaders of the JAC and representatives of various communities," the official added.

The Jiribam district, located on Manipur's westernmost boundary adjoining the Cachar district in Assam's Barak Valley, has a mixed population of Meiteis, Kuki-Zo tribals and various other communities. Earlier, it was unaffected by the ethnic conflict.

NIA may take over probe into Reasi terror attack as search ops intensify

FAYAZ WANI/ MUKESH RANJAN @ Srinagar/New Delhi

THE National Investigation Agency (NIA) swiftly responded to the scene of a horrific terror attack in Jammu & Kashmir's Reasi district, where a passenger bus was ambushed by terrorists on Sunday evening, resulting in the loss of nine lives and leaving 35 others injured. Officials from the agency immediately joined forces with local police to initiate investigations, with plans for the NIA to assume full control of the probe as it progresses.

Security forces launched an extensive cordon and search operation to hunt down the perpetrators. The attack targeted a 53-seater bus en route from the Shiv Khori temple to the Mata Vaishno Devi shrine in Katra, carrying pilgrims from Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan, and Delhi. Witnesses recounted a barrage of gunfire directed at the bus, causing it to careen off the road and plunge into a deep gorge near Teryath village, Poni area.

The response to Sunday's attack has been swift and comprehensive, with joint teams comprising police, army, and paramilitary forces launching a massive manhunt in the forested terrain surrounding the crime scene. Utilizing drones, sniffer dogs, and helicopters, security personnel are leaving no stone unturned in their pursuit of justice. Eyewitness testimonies paint a harrowing picture of the relentless gunfire endured by the pilgrims, underscoring the brutality of the attackers' tactics. Amidst the chaos, locals rallied to assist the injured, demonstrating resilience in the face of terror.

Preliminary investigations point to a meticulously planned assault, with masked terrorists targeting the bus, fatally wounding the driver and causing chaos among passengers. Bullet casings recovered from the scene corroborate the account of a coordinated attack by at least two assailants. The identities of the victims are yet to be confirmed, adding to the anguish of their families.

Experts in security and intelligence agencies suspect the involvement of Illiyas Fauji, a former Pakistani army SSG commando turned LeT operative, along with two other terrorists from Pakistan. These suspects have been on the run since their alleged involvement in a deadly attack on an IAF convoy in Poonch on May 4, heightening concerns about their potential role in this latest atrocity.

This attack serves as a reminder of the vulnerability of pilgrims in the region, evoking memories of the July 10, 2017, assault on an Amarnath pilgrim bus that claimed seven lives and injured 19.

Sexual abuse charge against Amit Malviya

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @Kolkata

BJP IT cell chief Amit Malviya on Monday filed a defamation suit seeking ~10 crore in damages against RSS member Shantanu Sinha who accused him of having "indulged" in sexual exploitation of women in West Bengal.

In a legal notice, the senior BJP leader sought removal of Sinha's "false, and derogatory" post from the social media.

"The nature of allegations are extremely offensive in as much as they falsely allege sexual misconduct purportedly committed by my client. The same is fatally injurious to the dignity and reputation of my client who, by virtue of his professional profile, is a public figure," the notice reads.

Meanwhile, RSS sources said that Sinha has never been associated with the organisation in any official capacity.

In a social media post, Sinha accused Malviya of sexually harassing women while he was staying in West Bengal.

Sinha said, "I am not saying Amit Malviya did misconduct with women or exploited them. I have just raised the question —will the Bengal leaders keep their posts by supplying women to leaders like Amit Malviya or others? We did see such things happen in Bengal earlier with cinema actors who were given tickets. But I will stick to my allegations that there are some men in Bengal BJP, who are enjoying posts by supplying women to leaders."

SHOCK AS MACRON DISSOLVES HOUSE, CALLS SNAP POLLS

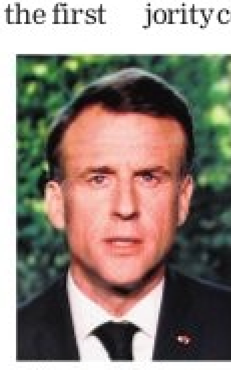
The decision came after the French president's party was defeated by the far-right in European polls on Sunday

PARIS

PRESIDENT Emmanuel Macron dissolved the lower house of France's parliament in a surprise announcement sending voters back to the polls in the coming weeks to choose lawmakers, after his party was handed a humbling defeat by the far-right in the European elections on Sunday.

The legislative elections will take place in two rounds on June 30 and July 7.

The announcement came after the first projected results from France put the far-right National Rally party well ahead in the European Union's parliamentary elections, handing a chastening loss to Macron's pro-European centrists, according to French opinion poll institutes. Marine Le Pen's anti-immigration, nationalist party was estimated to get around 31-32% of the votes, a historic result more than double the share of Macron's Renaissance party, which was projected to reach around 15%.



Emmanuel Macron

Macron himself wasn't a candidate in the EU elections and his term as president still runs for three more years.

He said the decision was 'serious' but showed his "confidence in our democracy, in letting the sovereign people have their say. In the next few days, I'll be saying what I think is the right direction for the nation. I've heard your message, your concerns, and I won't leave them unanswered," he said.

In latest legislative elections in 2022, Macron's centrist party won the most seats but lost its majority at the National Assembly, forcing lawmakers into political maneuvering to pass bills. With Sunday's decision, he is taking a big risk with a move that could backfire and increase the chances of Le Pen to eventually take power. A scenario in which an opposition party would eventually win a parliament majority could lead to a fraught power-sharing situation called 'cohabitation,' with Macron to name a prime minister with different views.

Le Pen, who head the National Rally group at the National Assembly, 'welcomed' Macron's move. "We're ready for it," said Le Pen, who was the runner-up to Macron in the last two presidential elections. "We're ready to exercise power if the French people place their trust in us in these future legislative elections. We're ready to turn the country around, ready to defend the interests of the French, ready to put an end to mass immigration, ready to make the purchasing power of the French a priority." The EU elections results were a hard blow for Macron, who has been advocating for Europe-wide efforts to defend Ukraine and the need for the EU to boost its own defences and industry.

The National Rally no longer wants to leave the EU and the euro, but aims to weaken it from within. AP

Chancellor Scholz's party suffers blow

BERLIN: Dismal results for Germany's governing parties in the European Parliament election have dented Chancellor Olaf Scholz's authority and could prompt even more of the infighting that just cost the government dearly. A clear win for Germany's mainstream conservative opposition boosts its confidence as the country begins to look ahead to a national election expected in the fall of 2025, but raises questions about why it isn't benefiting more from the unpopularity of Scholz's government. And a second-place finish for the far-right Alternative for Germany, despite scandals and setbacks, underlines its enduring appeal to many unsettled voters and its strength in the formerly communist east where it emerged as the strongest party and hopes to win three state elections in September. The defeat of the three parties in Scholz's unpopular coalition "really wasn't surprising, but the level they've dropped to is quite shocking for a governing coalition," said Andrea Rommele, a political science professor at the Hertie School in Berlin.

First big setback to populist party in Sweden

COPENHAGEN

THE elections in Sweden to the European Parliament marked the first electoral setback for the Swedish populist party with far-right roots that grabbed more than 13% of the votes but came fourth, according to preliminary figures on Monday. That made Sweden one of the few countries in Europe where the far-right is in retreat. The Sweden Democrats, the Scandinavian country's second largest group in the Swedish parliament, grabbed 13.2% of the votes, down 2.2%, and would keep their three seats in the EP assembly, according to preliminary figures.

They came in behind the opposition Social Democrats, Prime Minister Ulf Kristersson's conservatives Moderates and the Greens, which made some of the largest gains Sunday in the EU election for Sweden's 21 seats.

The Social Democrats grabbed nearly one-fourth of the votes and would get five seats while the Moderates would get four and the Greens three. The poor showing by the Sweden Democrats was 'the election night's greatest sensation,' said Mats Knutson, the political analyst with Swedish broadcaster SVT. He said the reasons for the poor showing could be that the party faced a storm of criticism after a television station had alleged that it had been operating fake social media accounts, badmouthing political opponents and allies, spreading doctored videos and posting racist remarks. Knutson also noted that the migration issue wasn't particularly important to voters this time.

Christine Nissen, an analyst with the Copenhagen-based think tank Europa, said that migration wasn't the top issue in northern Europe in contrast to southern Europe. AP

CAPTAINS STEERING THE COUNTRY'S ECONOMIC ENGINE

Even as major economic ministries such as finance and commerce did not see any changes in their respective ministers, some new names in strategically important ministries have been added to the new Cabinet. We look at major issues and challenges these ministers may need to address in the short- and medium term. The task in hand would be tougher for the ministers this time around given the coalition compulsions

Piyush Goyal, Min of Commerce, Industries

PIYUSH GOYAL will take charge of the Ministry of Commerce, Trade and Industry for the second straight time. Goyal, who has worn many hats as minister, has his work cut out in his new stint. The primary being reviving the country's manufacturing sector. Despite its Make in India initiative, the government failed to meet the target of increasing share of manufacturing to 25% and creating 100 million jobs by 2020. It had to shift this goalpost to 2025. In addition, implementing free trade agreements (FTAs) with various countries that were on the cards could prove to be challenging for the coalition government because of potential disagreements. Besides this, slowing foreign direct investment (FDI) is a key challenge the minister will have to address in his second stint as the commerce and industries minister. Among others, rising trade deficit with China remains a challenge.

Sarbananda Sonowal, shipping minister

SARBANANDA SONOWAL will repeat his term for the second time as ports, shipping and waterways minister under the Modi 3.0 regime. He was the minister of state (independent charge) of youth affairs and sports in the first Modi government from 2014 to 2016. As a shipping minister, completion of the India-Middle East-Europe Corridor, his being one of the nodal ministries, would be the biggest challenge for the minister amid ever changing geopolitical tensions. Completion of the SagarMala project – which seeks to enhance the performance of the logistics sector by leveraging coastal and waterway transportation – would be another key performance Indicator for the minister. Sonowal will also have to make policies which can address climate issues including rising temperatures and sea levels.

Ashwini Vaishnaw, electronics & IT minister

The Minister of Electronics and Information Technology, Ashwini Vaishnaw, will have to attract information technology (IT) and electronics manufacturing companies to the country for investment. The most important task will be to kickstart the semiconductor industry in the country. Over the next five years, the minister will need to coordinate with major tech companies to attract them to the country through the Production Linked Scheme. Apple, the American tech giant, has already begun producing iPhones in India, and now it's time for the ministry to increase production. Additionally, Vaishnaw will need to persuade other mobile manufacturers, especially Chinese companies, to start production in India. Vaishnaw is currently a Member of Indian Parliament, representing Odisha state in the Rajya Sabha.

Many new challenges await Sitharaman

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

Nirmala Sitharaman, finance minister

DESPITE all the talks about an inevitable change in the Ministry of Finance under Modi 3.0, Nirmala Sitharman has been retained as the finance minister of the country.

This is her second consecutive term as the finance minister of India. While she has proven herself in her first stint as the finance minister, giving stability to the economy marred by Covid pandemic and geopolitical tensions, her second stint would be about taking several sore issues head-on.

The minister's task isn't easy amid global slowdown and supply shocks. Giving impetus to private investment, job creation and rising food prices are key challenges before the minister in the current scenario. She, in her new stint, would also need to address the thorny issue of rationalizing Goods and Services Tax (GST). With cries of high taxes on goods and services making life of common man difficult, the minister would have to lead the GST Council to take the difficult decision of rationalising the GST rates without taking a hit on the exchequer.

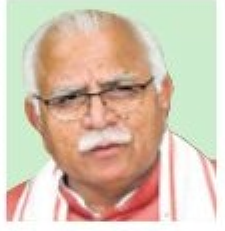
Taking privatisation of central PSUs with more vigour, simplifying direct tax rules through the Direct Tax Code and making Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) more effective are other major tasks at hands of the minister.

She would also have to handle the issue of increasing animosity between the states and the Centre over division of resources. Her work becomes even more challenging amid coalition compulsions, and changed political scenarios.

HD Kumaraswamy, Minister for Heavy Industries and Steel

FOR HD Kumaraswamy, the big task will be carving out a policy that would quicken adoption of electric vehicles (EVs). Owing to a lot of factors, especially related to subsidy cut under the Fame Scheme, EV sales has taken a hit in recent months. The auto industry would expect Kumaraswamy come up with the third phase of Fame scheme to support growth of this industry. Besides the subsidy scheme, he would have to oversee the battery manufacturing ecosystem. On the steel front, he will have to make sure that India produces enough to meet demand as there has been a rise in imports in recent times. Many of India's industrial facilities are outdated, requiring major investment in modernisation and technology upgrades. Then adoption of Industry 4.0, integrating advanced technologies such as IoT, AI, and robotics into traditional manufacturing processes is essential but challenging.

Manohar Lal Khattar, power minister



THE former Haryana Chief Minister, Manohar Lal Khattar, who assumed office as the power minister in the Centre, will have to address a host of issues in the next five years. Along with ensuring adequate power supply in the country amid rising temperatures, he will also have to address the much-controversial Electricity Amendment Bill 2022, which is currently with the standing committee. Although several of its key norms have been implemented through Electricity Amendment Rules, the bill is expected to be taken up after the committee studies it and puts forth suggestions. Furthermore, the continuation of power sector reforms after the implementation of the late payment surcharge and several schemes to improve the health of the distribution sector will be crucial for the ministry.

Ram Mohan Naidu, civil aviation minister

THE role of aviation ministry has changed drastically since the privatisation of Air India. Even as the government still operates Alliance Air and Pawan Hans, it now plays a role in aiding the growth of this sector rather than being an active stakeholder. New aviation minister Telugu Desam Party MP Ram Mohan Naidu will have a tough time ensuring that there are no more shutdowns or collapses of airlines. The ministry will have to protect the interest of smaller players from the unhealthy business practices of two giants that control about 90% of the domestic market. Naidu is likely to improve services offered to passengers who have been put in uncomfortable situations way too many times in recent times. The ministry will have to keep an eye on use and promotion of drones. It will have to come up with policies for air taxis, which are transport for the future.

Jyotiraditya Scindia, communication minister

THE newly-appointed telecom minister, Jyotiraditya Scindia, will have to tackle many issues in the future. The 53-year-old former civil aviation minister will have to check the quality of services and address the growing problem of pesky calls in the country, among other issues. However, the most important task will be to revive the state-owned Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited (BSNL) and bring it into competition. BSNL has been losing users to its competitors due to lack of 4G services. Scindia will have to roll out both 4G and 5G services as soon as possible. Another major challenge for the newly-appointed minister is to maintain competition in the market as the telecom sector heads towards a duopoly. Currently, Reliance Jio and Bharti Airtel are leading players in the market, while Vodafone Idea (VIL) is struggling and losing subscribers due to lack of funds.

Hardeep Singh Puri, petroleum minister

THE foremost task for Minister Hardeep Singh Puri will be to reduce fuel prices in the domestic market without impacting Oil Marketing Companies (OMCs) profit. Additionally, the minister will have to monitor the price of domestic LPG cylinders and ensure they are affordable in the country. He will also have to achieve the fuel-blending mandate of E20 (Blending of Ethanol in petrol by 20%) by 2025. Furthermore, Puri will need to work on reducing imports and increasing the production of crude oil and natural gas in the country. A former diplomat, Puri's exposure to geopolitics and the global energy space are widely believed to have worked in his favour. A 1974 batch Indian Foreign Service (IFS) officer, Puri has served the country in various capacities, including as the permanent representative of India to the United Nations from 2009 to 2013.

Sebi plans tighter norms for derivatives

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

Liquidity norms in individual stock derivatives

Mooting tighter rules on trading in individual stock derivatives, the Sebi says such liquidity rules are needed to avert risks of market manipulation after recent huge growth, mainly in options trading. The Sebi and other financial regulators were planning to form a panel to assess stability risks

AMID massive spike in derivatives volumes and increasing participation of retail investors in this segment despite over 91% of the heavily losing money from such trades, market watchdog Sebi has proposed tighter rules for derivatives contracts on individual stocks by ensuring sufficient liquidity and trading interest from market participants, something currently required only for contracts on indices.

In a discussion paper the regulator has proposed that for a stock to be considered for futures and options (F&O) trading, it need to have traded for 75% of the trading days.

Mooting tighter rules on trading in individual stock derivatives, the Sebi says such liquidity rules are needed to avert risks of market manipulation after recent explosive growth particularly in options trading. The paper comes amid reports that Sebi and other financial regulators were planning to form a panel to assess stability risks emerging from a surge in derivatives markets.

F&O in general and options trading in particular has soared in the past five years, fueled mainly by retail investors who by Sebi's own data have been losing from this exposure. The growth in this segment has been such that the notional value of index options traded over doubled in FY24 to $907.09 trillion from the previous year before, as per NSE, which controls over 95% of the domestic derivatives volume which also makes it the world's largest in this segment.

Of the 108 billion options contracts traded worldwide in 2023, as much as 78% were on domestic exchanges, as per the data from the Futures Industry Association. Retail investors make up 35% of derivative trading in the country.

An IIFL note warned that 25 of the 182 stocks on which F&O contracts are traded will ineligible for trading if the regulator's proposals are implemented.

Sebi further said derivatives contracts on individual stocks should have sufficient liquidity and trading interest from market participants, to the extend that a stock to be included in the F&O segment should have been traded for at least 75 percent of the trading days, Sebi said without specifying over what period.

Also, Sebi wants 15% of active derivatives traders should have traded the stock; average premium daily turnover should be ₹150 crore; average daily turnover must be between ₹500 crore and ₹1,500 crore; and the maximum number of open F&O contracts permitted for the underlying stock must be ₹1,250-1,750 crore, Sebi said, again without specifying any time periods.

Restructuring exercise: There will be no new layoffs, says Paytm

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

AS part of a restructuring initiative, many employees of One97 Communications, the parent company of Paytm, might lose jobs. Though the company announced the restructuring exercise long back, it clarified on Monday that reports of new layoffs at Paytm are speculative and misleading. The company did not announce the number of employees that are being fired.

"No new developments have occurred. As outlined in our FY24 earnings, we continue to optimise our cost structure and enhance AI capabilities, focusing on core business. We handle all employee transitions with fairness, including providing full notice periods, due bonuses, and outplacement support, collaborating with over 30 organisations," it said in a statement. According to reports, the company also said that it is providing outplacement support to employees that have resigned as part of the restructuring efforts by the company. It is also disbursing bonuses that were due to employees, ensuring fairness and transparency in the process.

Recently, in a letter to shareholders, Vijay Shekhar Sharma, founder and CEO said, "Led by capabilities of AI and focussing on core business, we are also working on significant cost efficiencies including leaner organisation structure."

He added, "Our ongoing experiments and learnings in AI promise to revolutionise customer and merchant care for the financial industry, while also unlocking new avenues for revenue generation and cost savings." In FY24, the company reported revenue of ₹9,978 crore, 25% growth.

"Our Q4 FY 2024 results were impacted by temporary disruption on account of UPI transition etc. and permanent disruption because of the PPBL embargo," the company had said.

'Reports are speculative'

Though the company (Paytm) announced the restructuring exercise long back, it clarified on Monday that reports of new layoffs at at the company are speculative and misleading. The company did not announce the number of employees that are being fired.

Tax devolution: ₹1.4 lakh crore released to states

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Centre has released ₹1,39,750 crore in the month of June from the regular release of the devolution amount, according a Ministry of Finance statement released on Monday.

This will enable state governments to accelerate development and capital spending. The Interim Budget 2024-25 has a provision of ₹12,19,783 crore towards devolution of taxes to states. With this release, the total amount devolved (for FY2024-25) to states till June 10, 2024, is ₹2,79,500 crore.

ETF inflows of ₹34.6k cr take AUM to ₹58.91L cr in May

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

A record inflow into equity mutual fund to the tune of ₹34,697-crore, up over 83% on-month, buoyed the industry assets (AUM) to an all-time high of ₹58.91 trillion in May, as investors bet on a record majority for the BJP in the just-concluded hustings, which though turned out to be far from the truth.

Overall assets under management of the 45-player mutual fund industry rose to a record ₹58.91 trillion in May from ₹56.3 trillion in the previous month, the industry body Amfi said Monday. This surge was led by ETFs, within which open-ended equity funds soared by ₹19,213.43 crore in the reporting month. This was despite investor interest remained lukewarm in large-cap funds as the category saw net investments of ₹663.09 crore in the month, while smaller caps just rocked, as per the Amfi data. Adding to the cheer was the continued success of systematic investment plans (SIPs) inflows, which rose to a new record of ₹20,904 crore in May from ₹20,371 crore in April. Monthly investments into SIPs topped ₹20,000 crore for the first time ever in April. Equity mutual fund inflows fell 16% to ₹18,917 crore in April but surge a 83.42% in May to a record ₹34,697 crore, as per the data from the Association of Mutual Funds, the industry trade body. Inflows into open-ended equity funds also remained in the positive zone for the 39th month in a row in May.

RURAL GROWTH

Tailwind for FMCG sector, more stock rallies likely

ENS ECONOMIC BUREA @ New Delhi

A host of factors such as rural revival, healthy monsoon prediction, post-election focus on social welfare schemes and softening of raw material prices is expected to augur well for fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG) companies on the D-Street.

Even as shares of top FMCG players such as HUL, Dabur, Marico, Tata Consumer, and Godrej Consumer have surged 8-14% in the last 5 sessions, analysts believe these stocks have steam left to their rally.

"Most FMCG firms are up at least 10% post election verdict, owing to their defensive nature and optimism around better prospects...For the companies that we cover, we estimate 13% earnings CAGR over FY24-26, aided by gross-margin gains and demand recovery," said brokerage Anand Rathi on Monday, which has a buy call on HUL (target price or TP of ₹3,000), Emami (TP of ₹730) and Zydus Wellness (TP of ₹2,150). United Breweries (TP of ₹2,300) is its pick in consumer discretionary. The brokerage believes election results (in which NDA lost seats in Maharashtra and UP) could spell more social welfare impetus. "With Maharashtra and Bihar lined up for state elections in 2024 and the Budget likely in July, we expect the government to allocate more for social welfare schemes, which would drive higher rural income ahead," it said.

As per Nielson, rural volume-growth improved to 7.6% in Q4FY24 (5.8% in Q3FY24, 0.3% in Q4FY23). Management commentaries by FMCG companies also painted better revenue trajectories. Thus, overall revenue growth, which fell to 6.5% in H2 FY24 (10% earlier), per Nielsen, is likely to grow in high single to double digits for FY25.

A fall in raw material prices, mainly crude oil prices which have softened by 10% over 7-10 days, could aid gross margin. Prices of most commodities were favourable in last six months/one year, barring prices of polypropelene, palm oil and coffee. Prices of barley and caustic soda recently rose (over 1/3/6 months), while those of mentha oil and crude fell. Also, wheat and milk powder were soft in last three-to-six months. Godrej Consumer Products, one of top FMCG firms, said rural landscape is evolving, presenting FMCG companies with a promising avenue for expansion.

Sinner takes over No 1 spot from Djokovic

Janik Sinner's anticipated rise to World No 1 was officialised on Monday when the ATP released its new rankings, making him the first Italian ever to hold the top spot. French Open champ Carlos Alcaraz climbed to second, nudging Novak Djokovic down to third. In the women's singles, Iga Swiatek cemented her place at the top with a win at Roland Garros.

BATTERS' BOGEYMAN

Sunday was yet another occasion where pacer Bumrah's genius was out there for the world to witness and celebrate...

GOMESH S @ Chennai

JASPRIT Bumrah does not give away much as a pacer on the field. The cricketing world knows it all too well. But he doesn't give away too much off the field as well, at least not about his bowling plans. Ask him if he is in the best phase as an international cricketer just after winning his second consecutive Player of the Match award — courtesy of a spell for the ages against Pakistan to defend a below-par total — he would turn the tables, saying, "Yeah, see a year ago, the same people were saying that I might not play again and my career is over and then now the question changed."

It is not the first time he has done that. Back in October, he said the same about how he was feeling since his comeback. Ask him if it means a little more when he dismisses a particular batter who had taken him on in the past, he would say there is too much cricket to keep count. His celebrations, his elaborate set ups would tell you otherwise. If it is a big occasion, he would say that it is all about trying to control the controllables while admitting that it is a cliche. Bumrah would also add that he was trying to create his bubble, taking people and emotions out of it. But then, most high-achieving elite athletes are like that. They seldom give away their tricks. And Bumrah is definitely one of them. It would be nowhere near an understatement to say that he has etched his name in the history books as the best male pacer to have come from India. On Sunday, Bumrah gave one more spell for the cricketing world to celebrate him. India vs Pakistan. A run-a-ball target. In Nassau County, USA. A buzz like never before in the county and perhaps the New York state for cricket. And the entire globe had their eyes glued to television sets. The stakes could not have been higher. What did Bumrah do? Come back with figures of 4-0-14-3 to hand India a six-run win. The 'what' doesn't surprise anymore. It is the 'how' that keeps getting fascinating every time he outwits batters like putting together a bunch of puzzles.

On Sunday, it was about not trying too much and sticking to the basics. Coming on to bowl in the third over, Bumrah delivered two overs in the powerplay. And through those overs — with a shorter leg-side boundary — Bumrah was using his natural angle and bowling into the stumps. The lines were such that he was either hitting the stumps or was on the fifth stump line. And depending on the direction in which the ball moved, Babar Azam and Mohammad Rizwan were caught in the crease. One drop catch (Rizwan) and a boundary later, Bumrah had the last laugh. A short-of-length which Babar tried to line up on the leg side, but the ball held its line after pitching. Babar adjusted and tried to guide it down third, but was caught at slips. His first spell, 2-0-9-1.

When he came back for the 15th over, the angle remained the same and so were the boundary lengths. This time, he was rewarded on the very first delivery. A shortish delivery angled in and Rizwan missed the line. Middle stump uprooted and Bumrah let out a roar. He knew what it meant. He knew what he had done — turned the match on its head with one more wicket in the penultimate over. But again, if you ask him about how he planned it out, Bumrah would say: "Even when there is help, you can be desperate, and you can try to go fuller and try to pull that magic delivery. I tried not to do that but when we came, the swing and seam had reduced. So, we had to be accurate because if we go for magic deliveries and try to be too desperate, run making becomes easy."

That's about how much Bumrah is going to get specific about his plans. However, he couldn't help but wear a wide grin whilst talking about how bowlers are getting their dues in this format. "I can't be happier listening to this. I always advocate bowlers, but we're very happy with the appreciation that bowlers have received because our country is obviously a batter-loving country and we understand that. But we are very happy that bowlers are coming up front... When it's bat vs bat, I switch off the TV. I have been a fan of bowling since childhood. When there is a challenge between bat and ball, that is the game I like. No complaints. I am very happy."

Typical Bumrah. Not giving away much about his bowling plans, but happy to advocate for bowlers. But, a happy Bumrah is a delight, and that is what not just the Indian team, but the cricketing world would want.

THE TALKING POINTS

While Pakistan and Sri Lanka are desperate for their first win, Australia would hope to consolidate their chances of making it to the Super 8s. A look...

DO OR DIE FOR PAK

After a super-over loss against the USA in their tournament opener and a narrow loss against India in New York, Pakistan must win this clash to stay alive. Canada on the other hand, are in high spirits after their win against Ireland. After an abysmal performance with the bat against India, Pakistan must introspect their plans if they are to beat Canada.

LANKA NEED A BIG WIN

The 2014 T20 World Cup champions are yet to register a win in this edition and if they are to make it to Super 8s they need a big win over Nepal. On both occasions so far in the ongoing World Cup, Sri Lanka's batting has yet to fire up as expected. Nepal did trouble the Netherlands in Dallas and need the same from their bowling unit again in Lauderhill.

AUSTRALIA LOOK TO MARCH ON

Australia are currently sitting second in Group B, behind Scotland, with two wins in two fixtures. Hoping to keep them fresh, they have opted to rotate the bowlers. It will be interesting to see if that policy continues against the Namibian side, which they have yet to face in the format.

Today's games

Canada vs Pakistan, New York, 8 PM
Sri Lanka vs Nepal, Lauderhill, 5 AM (Wednesday)
Australia vs Namibia, North Sound, 6 AM (Wednesday)

Nausea County: Dizzy tale of slow & unsteady chase

ANOTHER DAY, ANOTHER COLLAPSE IN NY

Chasing 114, Bangladesh went from 94/4 to 109/7 in the last three overs...

18th over, Rabada:	W	0	0	0	1	1
19th over, Baartman:	0	1	2	1	1	2
20th over, Maharaj:	1w	1	2	W	1lb	W	1

IF it wasn't for the different colours worn by the Bangladesh bowlers and fielders, it may well have been a replay of each of South Africa's earlier batting efforts. In their first World Cup match vs Sri Lanka, they had lost the top-three for 51. Against Netherlands, they were 3/3. So, all eyes were on the slightly beleaguered triumvirate of Quinton de Kock, Reeza Hendricks and Aiden Markram. Having been accustomed to some extreme conditions in New York and playing there for a third match in a row, one would have expected them to be well aware of the conditions.

Wrong. For a third match in a row, the Proteas' top three folded like a pack of cards at a bowling alley. This time, De Kock (18 off 11), Hendricks (0 off 1) and Markram (4 off 8) together put on 22 off 20. In all, in nine innings, they have made 61 from 76 deliveries for an average of 6.7 while striking at 80. This is clearly unsustainable in the long run.

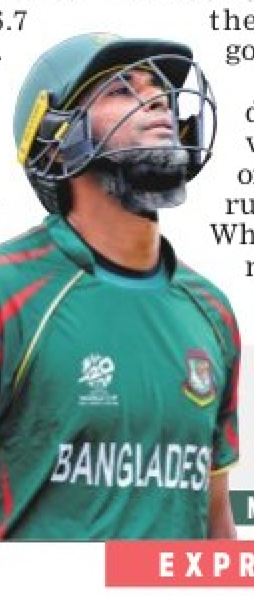
Luckily for them, though the foundation has been flaky, their middle-order, one of the strongest in this tournament, is made of material used by fictional superheroes. In Heinrich Klaasen, David Miller and Tristan Stubbs, they have a trio capable of absorbing shocks. If Stubbs and Klaasen steadied the ship against Sri Lanka, it was Miller and Stubbs who saw them home against Netherlands.

Against a well-oiled Bangladesh bowling unit, it was the turn of Klaasen (46 off 44) and Miller (29 off 38). Their fire-fighting 79-run alliance on a slowish surface helped them set a target of 114. Before talking about the partnership itself, one has to wonder why the South African support staff haven't been able to suss out the conditions properly. The strips in New York haven't been 180 plays 170 surfaces. These are, at best, 140-150 sort of strips. But watching De Kock & Co, it looks like the memo hasn't gone out.

Against Bangladesh, they survived by the barest of margins — four runs to be precise. While they are still not mathematically confirmed of a place in the next stages, they will need to address this yawning issue at the top. Otherwise, it may not be a wholesome campaign. At the moment, they top Group D with six points from three games and have one game more to play against Nepal.

From a Bangladesh perspective, they will have multiple reasons to pick a fight with the officials (and the rulebook). Needing 26 off 23, Mahmudullah moved across his stumps to try and clip a full length Ottneil Baartman delivery. He missed it before the ball flicked his pads before ricocheting to the toblerone cushions. However, the umpire had ruled him out. Even in real time, that seemed a questionable decision and DRS confirmed it (at this moment, the rules say that if the umpire gives the batter out, the ball is dead and everything post that becomes irrelevant).

Saying that, even without this, they should have won. But like Pakistan on Sunday, they panicked, lost control of the chase and threw it away in the end.



Mahmudullah

Brief scores: South Africa 113/6 in 20 ovs (Klaasen 46, Miller 29; Tanzim 3/18, Taskin 2/19) bt Bangladesh 109/7 in 20 ovs (Hridoy 37; Mahmudullah 20; Rabada 2/19, Maharaj 3/27, Nortje 2/17).

IOA and WFI are planning a support team for wrestlers that will include coaches, physiotherapists, nutritionists and mental-conditioning coaches.

MCA chief Kale dies of cardiac arrest in USA

MUMBAI: Mumbai Cricket Association president Amol Kale has died of a cardiac arrest in New York after attending the T20 World Cup match between India and Pakistan. On Sunday, Kale was present at the Nassau County Cricket Stadium to watch the game between the arch-rivals along with other MCA officials including secretary Ajinkya Naik and apex council member Suraj Samat. The 47-year-old Kale had become the MCA president after defeating former India and Mumbai cricketer Sandip Patil in the elections held in October 2022.

Gulveer eclipses 5,000m national record

PORTLAND (USA): Asian Games bronze medallist Gulveer Singh shattered the men's 5,000m national record to finish second at the Portland Track Festival High Performance Meet. Competing in the Paul Banta Memorial race, he clocked 13:18.92 to better the earlier national mark of 13:19.30 set by Avinash Sable last year. Gulveer, who hails from UP, now holds the national record in both 10,000m and 5,000m races. In the men's 5,000m high performance event, Abhishek Pal came up with a personal best of 13:41.57 to finish third.

Hat-trick of wins for Verstappen in Canada

AGENCIES @ Montreal

MAX Verstappen eased the pressure on Sunday when he completed a hat-trick of victories at the Canadian Grand Prix to consolidate his early-season lead in the drivers' championship.

After being beaten in two of the previous three races, the series leader and three-time champion bounced back to his competitive best, with the aid of excellent calls from his team in a tactical race, to win by 3.879 seconds ahead of McLaren's Lando Norris. Mercedes' George Russell, who started from pole position, finished third ahead of a fast, but frustrated team-mate in seven-time champion Lewis Hamilton.

Verstappen scored his third consecutive triumph at the Circuit Gilles Villeneuve and the 60th win of his career, having started second on the grid and, at times, riding his luck in a dramatic contest featuring two Safety Car interventions.

"That was a pretty crazy race and a lot of things were happening," said Verstappen.

"We had to keep on top of our calls and as a team we did really well today (Sunday). We remained calm and we pitted at the right time."

HOME THEATRE
FOCUS ON GERMANY

With the next edition of the Euros beginning on Friday night, a look at the six groups. Our countdown begins...

FIRST, A LOOK AT GROUP A

GERMANY

The hosts have had a few middling tournaments over the last few cycles. The last two World Cups were a blowout while they lost to England in the 2021 edition of the Euros. But a rejuvenation is underway with manager Julian Nagelsmann ringing the changes. Expect the likes of Florian Wirtz, Kai Havertz and Jamal Musiala to lead a more youthful looking side deep into the tournament. They also have the experience in the form of Ilkay Gundogan, Joshua Kimmich and the returning Toni Kroos.

CHAMPIONS: 1972, 1980, 1996 LAST TIME: R16

SWITZERLAND

Tournament veterans who took out France in a wild match in 2021. They do have a nice blend of youth and experience this time out and will be there or thereabouts in terms of getting out of this group. It's a team that is greater than the sum of their parts. The question is can they keep showing their nous in big tournaments? They have advanced from the groups in each of their last five competitions. With the likes of Granit Xhaka, Manuel Akanji, there is the necessary sprinkling of star power.

CHAMPIONS: NONE LAST TIME: QF

SCOTLAND

CHAMPIONS: NONE LAST TIME: GROUP STAGE

They have qualified to big events multiple times but are yet to advance to the knockouts. If they are to reverse that trend, all of their big-hitters (there are not to many of those in this side) will have to stand up. Worryingly, Andy Robertson, the Liverpool left-back, may have picked up an injury. John McGinn and Scott McTominay will be tasked with doing lot of the heavy lifting from midfield. Up front, they don't have a genuine goal-scorer. But they do have the tools to cause an upset. Last year, they beat Spain in the qualifiers.

HUNGARY

After spending a few decades in the wilderness, the landlocked country has it in them to at least make it to the last 16. While Dominik Szoboszlai, the Liverpool attacker, is the primary creative threat, they do have other players capable on either ends of the pitch. In 2021, they were unlucky to not progress despite not losing a single game against all of Germany, France and Portugal. This time, they may do better.

Maybe if I cared less, would have qualified for Candidates: Erigaisi

AJAY TOMAR @ Hyderabad

IMAGINE not just being a super Grandmaster, but also among the best 15 players of the world and still forced to play in a number of open tournaments due to limited invites to elite events. And yet improving your rating and ranking and vaulting into the top five. This is exactly what Arjun Erigaisi has done. The 20-year-old from Warangal is currently the World No. 4 in live ratings and also the India No.1, ahead of D Gukesh (World No. 7), R Praggnanandhaa (No. 8) and Viswanathan Anand (No.11).

Speaking to this daily, Erigaisi, who recently won the Menorca Open without a single defeat and scored an unbeaten 6/7 in the French Team Chess Championship, acknowledges that there are more risks in playing in open tournaments as even a draw could lead to a loss of a significant amount of rating points. "I would say it has paid off for me. It is best to be part of closed events, but given the circumstances, playing open was the way ahead for me," says the Telangana GM.

Erigaisi, who has now achieved a career-high live rating of 2771, narrowly missed qualification for the Candidates event that D Gukesh won in April. He says that he has now made the conscious choice of not caring too much about results. "Earlier, I used to care about my ratings and rankings. It used to affect me negatively. Maybe if I had cared less, there was a good chance I would have made it to the Candidates," admits the 20-year-old.

Meanwhile, several players, including GM Anish Giri, have criticised the FIDE Circuit concept, claiming that it forces players to play more tournaments for little prize money. However, Erigaisi views it as an idea that provides more opportunities for players.

Regarding the lack of support and logistical backing from the Telangana government unlike Tamil Nadu, as this daily pointed out in April, the first GM from the state says that there has been no change. "As it is very recent, there has not been any change on the government end. We have to see in the future if they contact me." GM Dronavalli Harika had also stressed that no effort was initiated by the state government to reward Erigaisi when he became the top Indian player earlier.

Kramnik is 'going nuts'

Referring to Vladimir Kramnik's repeated cheating allegations against strong players including Nihal Sarin, the 20-year-old quips that the former world champion is "going nuts". "I think most of the Indian players are legit. Yes, there is online cheating, which is a concern. But accusing anyone without evidence is not done."

'Going for the kill' is my style

Former world champion Magnus Carlsen, in a recent interview, had called Erigaisi a complete madman on the board. When asked about it, Erigaisi, with a smile, admits that it is his style: "I knew my style was like that.. to go for the kill. But I did not think Magnus would have felt it because my games against him were never really like that, but I think he took note of my games in general."

Dr Raghunath says that immunotherapy has shown impressive effectiveness across various cancer types, spanning from melanoma and kidney cancer to lung cancer, bladder cancer, and lymphoma. Its ability to activate the immune system against cancer cells has resulted in prolonged survival and enhanced outcomes in numerous patients

BOOST IMMUNE SYSTEM TO FIGHT CANCER

ANNA JOSE @ Kochi

WHEN diagnosed with cancer, Achuthan (name changed) from Palakkad district in Kerala learnt about immunotherapy, a new immunity boosting facility to cure the ailment, and decided to try a hand. Having undergone a cycle of treatment, the septuagenarian now finds it much comfortable. "I was comfortable after the injection. There was no pain, tiredness, nor any other difficulty that people who undergo chemotherapy experience. I felt the treatment was safer and after the blood test, I am waiting for the next cycle," says Achuthan, who is undergoing treatment for the third stage of lung cancer.

The immune system in every human body comprises special cells that constantly patrol the body for intruders. When they come across a damaged or cancerous cell, they destroy it. This keeps cancerous tumours under check from growing. However, cancerous cells constantly look for ways to dodge immune system defences. Through immunotherapy, one can strengthen the immune system's ability to fight cancer cells, apart from targeting and destroying specific proteins or receptors on cancer cells to prevent them from outsmarting immune system.

Immunotherapy has been a landmark discovery in cancer therapeutics, according to Dr Arun Philip, senior consultant, medical and hemato-oncology at Rajagiri Hospital, Ernakulam. "It has changed the way we treat many advanced cancers. These drugs are designed to stimulate the body's anti-tumour immune response and thereby causing tumour kill," he said.

Dr Raghunath SK, senior consultant and director of uro-oncology and robotic surgery at HCG Cancer Centre in Bengaluru, said immunotherapy was a revolutionary approach to combat cancer by leveraging the body's immune defences. "Unlike conventional treatments like surgery or radiation, which directly target cancer cells, immunotherapy works by enhancing the immune system's ability to identify and eradicate threats. It is akin to providing specialised training and advanced weaponry to bolster the immune army's efforts in the fight against cancer," he said.

In comparison with chemotherapy

Chemotherapy is the most common type of treatment that comes to one's mind for cancer, in which drugs are used to kill the cancer cells in the body. In comparison, immunotherapy uses the body's immune system to stop and kill cancer cells, and also has the potential to prevent and cure cancer.

Developed in the late 1800s by William Bradley Coley, an American surgeon and oncologist, immunotherapy, also known as immune checkpoint inhibitors, works by targeting the tumour by using the immune system. Earlier attempts to modulate patients' immune systems to cancer are attributed to two German physicians - Feheleien and Busch.

Chemotherapy drugs can be used alone or in combination to treat a wide variety of cancers. Though chemotherapy is an effective way to treat many types of cancer, it also carries risk of side effects which can range from mild and treatable, to serious complications.

How the remedy works

Dr Jaisankar P, consultant in medical oncology at Lisie Cancer Centre, said immunotherapy is more biological. "It mainly belongs to three categories - anti-PD1, anti-PDL1, and anti-CTLA4. The basis of modern immunotherapy is the identification of PD1, PDL1 and CTLA receptors, and their role in immune evasion by tumour cells. In PD1, PDL1 interaction, multiple drugs that block CTLA receptors were developed. The drugs which bind to these receptors and block their activity are broadly termed immune checkpoint inhibitors," he said.

Immune evasion or antigenic escape is a process by which a pathogen can bypass or evade the immunogenic response of a host's cells and continue its growth and transmission. "In comparison to conventional chemotherapy drugs, they do not directly destroy cancer cells and do not have much toxic effects on the normal healthy cells, hence are supposed to be safer," added Dr Arun.

This mostly works in tumours which produce the most number of tumour antigens, according to Dr Jaisankar. "This technique is mostly used in treating conditions like kidney cancer, non-small cell lung cancer, melanoma and bladder cancer. It was found most effective in metastatic cancer," he said.

Though the therapy was not familiar to people earlier, with increased awareness, the popularity of the treatment has increased and it is used to treat tumours in several people. "Earlier, immunotherapy was not widely used as the indications were limited and the cost was high. But now with increased awareness and reduction in cost, the use of immunotherapy has gone up. Immunotherapy can be used even in patients who are not fit enough to receive chemotherapy as side effects are much lower," he said.

A safer option

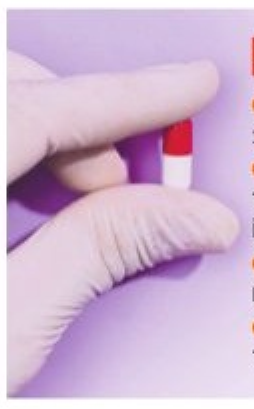
Dr Arun said that multiple studies have shown better efficacy, safety profile and improved long-term outcomes in many different cancers in comparison to conventional chemo. "There aren't many side effects like chemotherapy. Its (immunotherapy) side effects are immune-related - we call it immune-related adverse effects (irAEs). It is seen in a few people, maybe in 5-10% of people. Hypothyroidism, rashes, etc are found to be the side effects of the treatment. It is well tolerated and much better than chemotherapy," Dr Jaisankar pointed out.

Immune checkpoint inhibitors, the commonly used immunotherapy drugs, are either used alone or in combination with chemotherapy. The common ones in use now are Nivolumab, Pembrolizumab, Durvalumab, and Atezolizumab. "Immunotherapy is also used as an adjuvant and neoadjuvant. Neoadjuvant means when we use the technique before the surgery to shrink the tumour. In that case, the duration of treatment is shorter from three to nine cycles. It is used as an adjuvant to prevent the relapse of the tumour. Then the time period will be six months or one year," he added.

High-cost treatment

As immunotherapy molecules are still patent-protected and are imported, the cost is high. Dr Jaisankar said that the cost is expected to decrease once Indian companies start manufacturing it. "Since they are novel molecules which are imported as of now, they are quite expensive. With time, they are expected to become more economical and more patients would hopefully derive benefits from immunotherapy," said Dr Arun.

(With inputs from Rishita Khanna @Bengaluru)



EFFECTIVE TREATMENT OPTION

- The immune system has the ability to fights invaders, such as germs, throughout the body
- Unfortunately, cancer cells can develop an ability to hide from the immune system, or can disable or inhibit the immune system from acting
- Immunotherapy boosts your immune system so it can do more to find and kill cancer cells
- Immunotherapy for cancer is a very effective treatment that may help some people with cancer live longer

STRENGTHENING THE IMMUNE SYSTEM

The immune system has special cells that constantly patrol your body for intruders. When they find a damaged or cancerous cell, they destroy it. That keeps cancerous tumours from growing and spreading. But cancerous cells constantly look for ways to dodge immune system defenses. Immunotherapy works by:

- Boosting the immune system: Immunotherapy can strengthen the immune system's ability to fight cancer cells.
- Targeting cancer cells: Immunotherapy can target and destroy specific proteins or receptors on cancer cells to prevent them from outsmarting the immune system

IMMUNOTHERAPY TYPES INCLUDE

- Checkpoint inhibitors.
- Adoptive cell therapy (T-cell transfer therapy).
- Monoclonal antibodies.
- Cancer vaccines.
- Immune system modulators

Like most cancer treatments, immunotherapy causes side effects that can affect your daily life. Side effects include

- Fatigue
- Itchy rash
- Diarrhea
- Nausea and vomiting
- Decreased thyroid hormone levels

TRANSPORT DEPARTMENT
PUBLIC NOTICE

Section 88(9) of The Central Motor Vehicle Act' 1988 empowers to grant of All India Tourist Permits (AITP permits) for contract carriages specifically HMV-Omni Buses which are allowed to Transport Tourists in the intention of promoting tourism for the benefit of the tourists who are travelling from one place to another on a tour (for pilgrimage, marriage / tourism purpose, sight –seeing, etc.,).

The recent analysis shows that the vehicles registered and having permits as stated above are mostly plying in violation of the permit for which the permit was granted.

The violations observed are :

1. Without engaging tourists booked on the basis of a valid single point contract, picking and dropping of passengers at multiple points thus acting as stage carriage either across two or more states or within Tamil Nadu.
2. Collecting fare from individuals (not from the tour group organizer through a valid single point contract) by issuing tickets electronically by SMS / e-ticket & through various bus ticket booking apps like Red Bus, Abhi bus, etc.,
3. Operating by picking up in one state and dropping down in multiple points in the different state.
4. As against the All India Tourist Vehicles (Permit) Rules' 2023, not maintaining the passenger list either in electronic or physical form as per the tour programme / contract.
5. Not maintaining to their course route and the date as per the tour programme / contract.
6. Inflicting substantial revenue loss to the State Government by violating the AITP conditions.
7. Adopting unscrupulous practices in obtaining the AITPs in other States, etc.,

Hence, the Government of Tamil Nadu is hereby directing all such tourist vehicle owners / operators to adhere to the following instructions with effect from 13.06.2024:-

i. A tourist vehicle plying under the AITP shall at all times carry a list of tourists in electronic form or in a physical form which shall contain the details of origin and destination of each tourist and the tourist vehicle operator shall maintain the records electronically of the tourists including the journey details for a minimum period of one year and these records shall be made available to the jurisdictional transport authority/ any other law enforcement officer on demand.

ii. They shall also make suitable entries in corresponding Motor Vehicles Department Check Posts / Check Points and in the rest of the places the Police check posts on the Intention of visit, details of tourists, schedule of number of days inside the Tamil Nadu, place of exit point, etc.,

If any of the tourist operator with AITP violates the conditions stipulated above, necessary action will be taken as per the Acts and Rules,

This public notice is being issued in the interest of the general public.

H1N1 pandemic

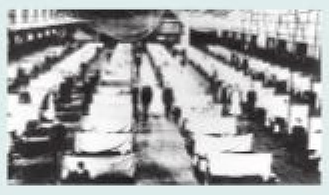
In 2009, the WHO declared the H1N1 influenza virus (formerly known as swine flu) as a pandemic after it appeared in Mexico and the US

OUTBREAK

Data indicated that the 2009 H1N1 influenza virus pandemic started as an outbreak of influenza-like illness in the Mexican town of La Gloria, Veracruz, in mid-February 2009

SYMPTOMS

H1N1 symptoms include fever and mild respiratory issues, such as coughing, runny nose, and congestion. In few cases, it included diarrhoea and vomiting



SPANISH FLU

From 1918 to 1919, three waves of influenza swept Europe. The second wave resulted in a mortality rate of over 2.5% and the third spread over the globe

Navigating Nature

In the wake of recent fatalities among trekkers in Uttarakhand, CE explores the need for safety, thorough preparation, and respecting nature's unpredictability

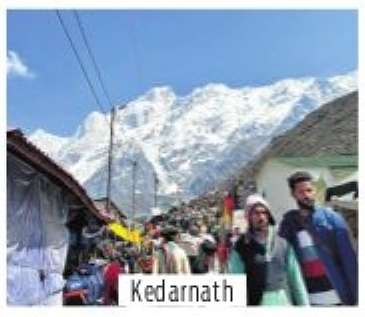
DESE GOWDA

A promise of fresh air, the rhythmic crunch of footsteps, and the embrace of nature... You might even witness the crisp warmth of a sunrise, towering over your surroundings after a long, vigorous hike through the wilderness. For many, trekking is an experience unlike any other – invigorating and exhilarating. But without proper precautions, it can easily turn into a nightmare or even be deadly. The recent tragedy in Uttarakhand's Uttarkashi district, where nine Bengalureans lost their lives due to severe weather conditions, is one such example.

A lack of regulation, insufficient awareness among novice trekkers, and the emergence of firms competing for business by offering lower prices – with potentially disastrous results – are among the biggest issues that can lead to what some term as preventable deaths.

"I have trekked mostly in the south, but recently I went to Kedarnath when it opened in May. The view was great, but the management was terrible. Ideally, they are supposed to allow 12,000 permits per day, but it was far beyond that. There was no way they could handle that kind of a crowd, which made the trek harder with all the pushing," shares city-based investment consultant Avantika Mohapatra.

Anand Sankar, the founder of Tons Trails, emphasises that the cost of a trekking package can often reflect the level of safety and support provided. "Many think that if one operator charges ₹8,000 and another ₹30,000, the difference is luxury versus budget. However, that ₹30,000 often buys you safety, not just luxury. There are no regulations capping the maximum group size an operator can take," he says, adding that cheaper trekking packages often compromise safety by reducing the number of staff.



Kedarnath

"On the Kedarnath trail, anything can happen at any time so there should be some measures taken by the government for people's safety but there were no facilities provided for the trekkers or the locals," says Bhoomi Dattani, a graphic designer who had visited Kedarnath in 2022 when a cloud burst had hit worsening the weather conditions. "We were a day delayed because of the weather, so they cancelled our booking and then gave us one room for ten people; a room where there were two windows which were completely open and we couldn't even close them and had to stay there in minus temperature. There was no hot water or heater."

Mentally and physically demanding

Meanwhile, Anjan Kumar, founder of Native Trekking, notes that a significant portion of trekkers lack adequate knowledge about the physical and mental demands of trekking. "There is very little public awareness about the requirements for trekking and how to properly undertake a trek. Most people don't realise the physical demands and neglect to pay attention to them," he says. "Trekking in the Western Ghats or the hills around Bengaluru is far safer compared to the Himalayas. Firstly, we don't have to worry about unforeseen weather turning dangerous. At most, we may encounter heavy rainfall, but we have contingencies for that."

Agrees Sankar. "In the Himalayas, you could be 100 to 200 kilometres from the nearest hospital and 8 to 10 kilometres from the nearest road. Even a minor injury like a twisted ankle could require two people to help you out. Humility is crucial. People think because they've done a few treks in the Western Ghats, they're experienced. I've lived here for over a decade and hiked extensively, yet every day I treat it as if it's my first, knowing that something can go wrong. Certificates in trekking don't prepare you for the unpredictability of the mountains."

SAFE PRACTICES

Choose Reputed Operators

Ensure the trekking company follows established safety protocols and has a good guide-to-trekker ratio. Ask for a safety SoP document

Understand the Terrain

High-altitude trekking is significantly different from low-altitude hikes. Prepare accordingly. Approach each trek with humility, keeping in mind the unpredictability of nature

Physical Preparation

Engage in regular cardio and strength training. Ensure you are physically fit for the trek. Invest in proper trekking shoes and essential medical supplies. Consider carrying an oxygen cylinder for high-altitude treks

Outdoing by out lifting

City-based athlete Deepa Ajay, who took up powerlifting so she could take care of her sons, shares her experience on winning gold at the National Women's Powerlifting Championship

EXPRESS FEATURES

WHEN 44-year-old Deepa Ajay first started her fitness journey, she was overweight and the primary caretaker to two children with special needs. However, just a few years later, in April of this year, the Bengalurean won gold on her debut at the National Women's Powerlifting Championship, defeating much younger opponents.

"I didn't expect to win gold in any of the age categories. At the national level, they give gold for each of the lifts along with the total score. I knew I wouldn't win gold in all three lifts because I was aware of my competitors' strengths. But to outlift all of them in total and set a national record was something I never expected. It was an incredible achievement that I never thought I would reach," shares an excited Ajay, who plans to compete in world championships going forward.

Having taken up powerlifting to get fitter and build strength to better care for her children, Ajay has come a long way. "My older son, who is now 20, still needs a lot of physical help. I was overweight and felt I needed to shed weight to care for them better, taking them to school, therapy, and so forth. When we moved into an apartment with a decent gym, I started going there. Initially, I thought of using the treadmill, but then I saw the weight section and decided to try it. I started reading about strength training and realised it was what I needed – to build muscle and maintain bone density. As I age and my children grow older, I need to be strong since I'm their primary caretaker," she explains.

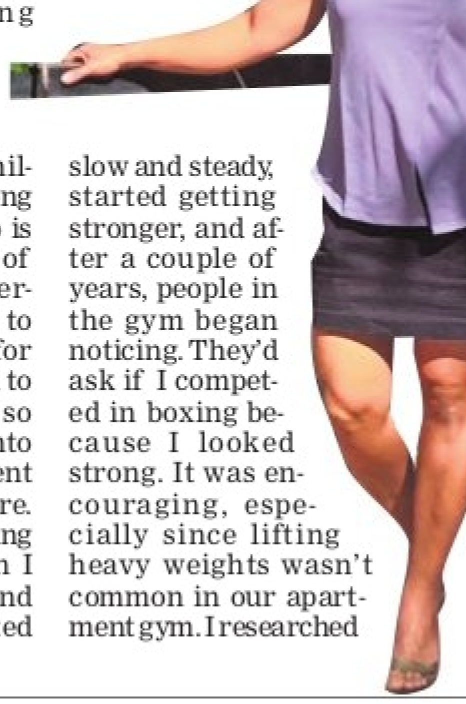
Athlete Deepa Ajay at the National Women's Powerlifting Championship

For nearly five years until August last year, Ajay trained without a coach, relying on videos by trainers on social media to ensure her technique was correct and to avoid injury. "I took it slow and steady, started getting stronger, and after a couple of years, people in the gym began noticing. They'd ask if I competed in boxing because I looked strong. It was encouraging, especially since lifting heavy weights wasn't common in our apartment gym. I researched competing and decided to give it a go."



In November, she competed for the first time after hiring a coach she discovered on Instagram. Competing in her age group, she focused on the bench press and won gold on her first attempt. Although not highly competitive, the experience was encouraging enough for her to decide to continue competing.

Despite the logistical challenges due to her unique domestic circumstances, Ajay, at her coach's insistence, competed in both the Open and Masters categories. Unlike most athletes who arrive a day prior to rest, she had to travel overnight and arrive on the day of the competition.

"More than winning a podium finish, pushing myself was the most rewarding aspect. I discovered I had more in me than I realised," she shares, adding, "My last deadlift attempt was the grind of my life, and I didn't know I had it in me until I did it. Competing in the open category was a way to find out if I could push myself to that level. I've seen friends do it at state-level competitions and wondered if I could do it too. My life has mostly been about taking care of my children, so discovering that I could be a competitor and excel was an amazing experience."

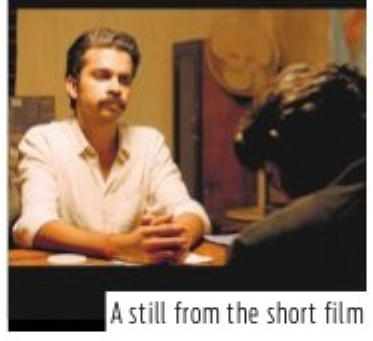
Filmmaker Purujit Banwasi's short film Confession, a cop movie, goes beyond finding the real culprit

Finding the Real Truth

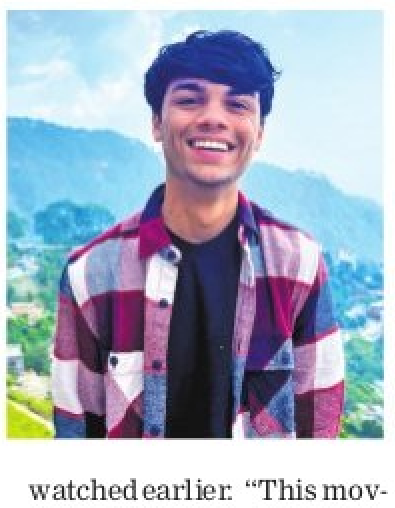
MONIKA MONALISA

MOVIES are a way to tell stories and sometimes show the whole story in a moment. Filmmaker Purujit Banwasi found that one moment in a brief minute while a cop interrogated a suspect. His short film Confession goes into the details and nuances of that one moment.

Banwasi explains the film is a classic interrogation, except that it doesn't go into whether this person committed the crime or not, but rather focuses on the person's confession. Having always been a fan of interrogation scenes, it's no surprise the script was long-brewing in his head.



A still from the short film



"Every filmmaker wants to make one film with an interrogation scene. I was one of those. When I got into writing it, I started wondering why this is such an interesting topic. It led me to write about morality. So the film does show interrogation but not in the regular way that we have seen earlier," says Banwasi. Sharing further, he says, "Instead of the police interrogating the community, the course of events turn out in such a way that it is the criminal interrogating the police."

Being a filmmaker, he says he is fond of watching a lot of movies, irrespective of the genre. The inspiration for the movie came from many movies he had watched earlier. "This movie has been inspired in many places, including the likes of The Dark Knight and Batman. A lot of the scenes bled into the vocabulary that I was using as a writer and director. So I would often reference these films for costumes, sets, lighting, or writing," he says, adding, "I worked on films with friends during the lockdown. I learned a lot about lighting and editing. It was during the lockdown that I picked up editing at home. I stumbled on an editing software, and that gave me the confidence to make my film," says Banwasi.

How to deal with body shaming, and is there anything positive to do about it?

ASK AN XPERT

Apart from being humiliating, being body shamed affects our mental health. Unfortunately, one of the first things most people do when they meet you after a long time is comment on your weight or appearance. I myself have been a victim of this so many times. It is never nice to hear negative comments, and it is a subtle form of putting down the other person. Whatever size or shape you are, as long as you have a healthy, functioning body, be grateful for it and take care of yourself. Wear clothes that make you feel good. This will increase your confidence. Do not compare your body to what you see on social media. Lighting and angles can change how a person looks completely. Not everything is as it appears.

Also, most people who are body-shaming you do not have a perfect body themselves. All they are trying to do is make themselves feel better by tearing you down. When someone makes a hurtful comment, just smile and say, 'Oh, is that so? How observant you are! I had never noticed.' They will get the point.

FITBIT

BHARMANASANA (TABLE TOP POSE)

This is a foundation pose for many yoga poses, which helps beginners align the hands and legs in the right measurements. It helps to bring balance to the body while the entire muscle is equally stretched. The gentle stretch is at the arms, shoulders, wrists, hips, core, thighs, knees, and spine, balancing and relieving the tensions after that. Even intermediate- and advanced-level students need this basic pose to align, stabilise, and progress to other poses. It is a transition pose that forms part of many yoga sequences, like Hatha Yoga. Bharmanasana is considered a base pose that can be practised by senior citizens as well. If any student finds pressure on the knee, they can use a blanket under the knee.

STEPS

- Align in Vajrasana (Thunderbolt Pose) and take a few breaths.
- Move the torso forward while placing the palms on the mat in front of you.
- Ensure that your knees are still resting on the mat.
- Bring the torso parallel to the floor.
- Make sure the distance between the knees and the palms is the same to avoid imbalance.
- While arms are shoulder-width apart, you can keep the legs hip-width apart.
- Ensure that your feet and the toes are in line with the knees.
- The front foot should be resting on the mat while the toes are engaged.
- Hips should be flexed with an internal rotation and stacked above the knee.
- Practitioners should slightly tuck in their navel to maintain core strength.
- Maintain the balance and remain here for about 12 slow breaths.
- Look down, keeping the neck and head steady and parallel to the mat.
- Ensure that the core muscles are engaged.
- Focus on your breath here.
- Stay in the position as per your capacity, and then release the pose and relax in Prasarita Balasana (Extended Child Pose).

BENEFITS

- Helps stretch the arms, shoulders, wrists, hips, core, thighs, knees, and spine.
- Helps maintain the balance and relieve the tensions.
- Stretches the arms, shoulders, elbows, wrists, chest, back (upper, middle, and lower), hips, quadriceps, hamstrings, knees, and neck.
- In this asana, the spine muscles are toned and the core gets engaged.
- Helps to bring focus and awareness to the spine.
- Students can achieve this if they don't lock their elbows.
- In this pose, the student creates awareness of stabilising and aligning the body.
- Yoga teachers can use this pose for posture correction and therapy.
- Therapists can use this pose to treat insomnia.
- Helps increase the breath capacity.
- Helps to calm restorative poses with self-awareness.
- It's a passive core strengthening pose.
- Helps support the lumbar spine.
- Used in postnatal core-strengthening.
- Pregnant women can practise this with ease as the weight of the womb is not on the legs.
- Conscious neutral spine alignment strengthens pregnant women's back, taking pressure after the second trimester.
- Stimulates the Visuddha (throat) chakra, which improves communication skills.
- Acts as a preparatory pose for many asanas.

LIMITATIONS

- Students who have been injured or have undergone recent surgeries on the knees, wrists, shoulders, elbows, hips or spine, or have weak knees, ankles, carpal tunnel syndrome, suffering from arthritis of the shoulders, hips and knees, should avoid this asana.

15-year-old Rudra Raghava, son of renowned Bengaluru artist Raghava KK, on carving his own niche with his new card game Hex Gems

BREWING FUN

EXPRESS FEATURES

A session of Hex Gems

IF scrolling for hours on social media and binge-watching OTT shows is not working out for you, then a sure-shot way of exciting engagement has always been a game of cards or a board game meet-up with friends and family. With the city's vibrant board gaming culture, there is a new card game creating a new world of spells and fantasy. Created by a 15-year-old Rudra Raghava, Hex Gems is a strategy-based battle card game for two to four, where you brew gems to cast spells and beat your opponents. Despite his age, Rudra is no rookie. "It started as a game I made for my siblings. And it was one of the 20 other games I had made, and out of all of them, this game was my siblings' favourite," says Rudra, who has created this on a budget of ₹80,000, nearly all of which was crowdfunded.

Rudra's creativity and passion for art runs in the family, being the son of renowned multidisciplinary artist Raghava KK, who has made headlines for his phygital NFT, La Petite Mort, which sold for an astounding $94,500 at Sotheby's. Rudra recounts, "This game was inspired by an idea I had for another game a while ago, about combining different elements in a sort of Rock-Paper-Scissors style. From that, I came up with the idea of gems to brew spells."

Last summer, he redesigned the game and made one copy of it to play with his friends. The turning point came when his friend Nial George played it for the first time. "Rudra showed me these cards and I loved them instantly. So I asked him, 'Why is it that I've never heard of this game before?' And then he says, 'It's because I made it'. That's when I knew, I would help him elevate this experience in any way possible," says 13-year-old George.

The 132-card deck includes gem cards, add-on cards, defend cards, and heart cards, which represent players' health in the game. "You brew spells with the help of gem cards. Add-on cards increase the potency of the spell," explains George, adding, "There are four gems – Lemonite, Cobalite, Cerelite, and Zephyrite. Each gem has its strengths and weaknesses. For example, Lemonite is very powerful, but it takes a very long time to brew. So all spells are powerful depending on where you are in the game. That's where the element of strategy comes in."

Rudra Raghava and Nial George

The duo has already produced and sold 100 copies of the game. "It's proof that this game is good and that people enjoy it. So we're planning to expand and go bigger," says Rudra, whose next step is to engage with board gaming communities to introduce the game to a broader audience and gather feedback for further improvement.

Against the Tide

THE result of the Battle for Bharat was a foregone conclusion, give or take a couple of surprises. The die was loaded many months ago, the crown burnished and kept ready, and the winner was waiting to don it. Righteous media gods had declared the exit poll results with a 'we know all' smugness, poised to trigger the Sensex. Come June 4, and the silent voting masses threw a quietus of sorts on the loudest and most acidic of our news anchors, literally taking the wind out of their sails. After years of partisan bullying passing off as primetime debates, their comeuppance was almost comical. The voter had finally spoken.

The abiding image throughout the 2024 general elections has been that of David and Goliath, the king and his challenger, locked in an unequal battle. Goliath at the pinnacle, looking down with contempt at David at the foothills, struggling up a slippery slope. Goliath in his technicolour dreamcoats and turbans, David in his ordinary pastels. A seasoned player and an apprentice; between them were two decades of experience and politicking. They mocked each other in their pursuit of that fair damsel called people power.

It was no fun being David. Each time he stood up, he was swatted down, each time he spoke up, he was ridiculed. He was called names, abused and trivialised, until he put on his Asics and tied up his shoelaces and set off on a long, long walk. He covered miles of earth, hoping to stitch together a divided nation, talking about shops of love in a fishmarket of hate.

Goliath, meanwhile, had comfortably strode a path paved with success and adulation for years, setting a gold standard of sorts for leadership. There was an invincibility about him, there was myth and mythology, sengol and showmanship. Goliath had also recently discovered that a divinity shapes him, going from OBC to celestial in one big leap of faith. There was certainly no lack of drama here.

In the raucous campaign that lasted months, the chattering and voting classes were left in a state of confusion. They were fed religion and hate, the two opiums of the masses. There were promises of free food, power, homes, doles and dogma. Little was spoken of free education and healthcare, skills and jobs, or even the freedom to speak out.

Finally, they went with the best on offer. In a democracy, where numbers are prime, there was no real winner or loser this time, but a return of a sense of balance, like water finding its level. The voter had stood up and spoken: for moderation of views, language and aggression, and the right to many small freedoms.

LOVEOLOGY
Mahesh Natarajan

(The author is a counsellor with Inner Sight)

Every relationship needs to be negotiated

ONE of the most powerful stories in Hindu mythology is about Sati going to a function her father organises without an invitation, despite Shiva expressing reservations about it. Shiva in these stories is not holding anything back and is very articulate in saying that not being invited was a disrespect, and going there nevertheless would be quite inconceivable and a social disaster. Sati insists that the love she has with her parents is sacred and that as a child of that family, she doesn't need an invitation and that she's always welcome there, and more to the point, has a right to be there. She imagines she will be welcomed warmly and celebrated, and is upset that Shiva doesn't get it. Some stories have her even deride Shiva here saying that as someone who doesn't have parents or a family of origin, he wouldn't know these emotions or what they mean.

At the end of their argument, Shiva doesn't go but Sati does, and things go quite awry. It gets quite catastrophic, really.

Leaving the religiousity aside, just as a story, it is powerful in how it talks about the danger of assuming welcome. Relationships do not automatically assure one of anything – certainly not as adults. We might think that because we love someone, we must have certain privileges over each other but that's not a given. Every relationship needs to be negotiated at different steps, and in each space, what is allowed is different. We cannot take as guaranteed the privileges we have, and given other things in our lives, these privileges can keep changing.

We aren't talking only about the connection between parents and children when the kids start to fall in love or get into relationships with people who do not meet the approval of the parents – the risks of privileges and access being withdrawn are evident there. Even when everything is okay and there are no precipitating factors, it can change pretty quickly and you may not even know what's changed. This is true for how one gets along with one's family of origin, the families we make, the friends we make and pretty much everybody we meet along the way – even the work place.

Consent is a big word in that sense. It applies to all sorts of situations, and in social situations, it becomes a lot more layered. Turning up without a real invitation, just because you love someone and feel warm and fuzzy about them, is one such situation. You may be treated well, but then again, you may not be treated well at all. It is a risk one takes. Maybe it won't be the kind of catastrophe that followed Sati's choice, but it could be quite a negative experience.

If you choose to ignore it and go anyway, just out of love, you'll need to be prepared that it won't go the way you imagined. You might have a great time, but it might just be better to check first, clarify that you are welcome before you take the risk!

‘Kotee marks a breakthrough opportunity’

Moksha Kushal shares her fascination with the craft, describes her working experience with actor Dhananjay, director Param, and a big production house as a dream come true

CE FEATURES

MOKSHA Kushal presents herself as a versatile individual, boasting a diverse background spanning engineering, sports, and various extracurricular pursuits. Notably, she has experience in ramp walking and harbors a deep affection for acting. “I get to experiment with different personalities, do different things each day, and avoid a monotonous life,” she explains, expressing her fascination with the craft.

Despite encountering challenges in her career, especially during her initial foray into short films followed by commercial ventures, Moksha sees Kotee as her breakthrough opportunity. “Being part of such a significant project which marks Param’s directorial debut and starring alongside Dhananjay feels like stepping onto a bigger canvas,” she shares, acknowledging her luck in landing this role. Reflecting on how she secured her part in Kotee, Moksha recounts, “I was the last actor to join the cast. The director had auditioned over 200 female actors for my role. The makers of Modakavide Vatavarana recommended me, but I had to undergo multiple auditions before being chosen. The role demanded honesty, simplicity, acting skills, and traits that the director felt I could pull off.

Discussing the significance of a big-ticket film in an actor’s career, Moksha explains, “An opportunity to collaborate with a passionate director, talented co-star, and esteemed production house like Jio Studios is a dream come true. It’s a significant step forward for me.”

When asked about what impact starring in prominent films will have on an actor’s recognition, Moksha provides insights into the industry dynamics. “While there’s no shortage of talent or new films, the challenge lies in attracting audiences to theatres. Big productions with established stars facilitate broader outreach and audience engagement,” she explains.

Regarding her preparation for the role, Moksha underscores her commitment to delivering her best performance. “Participating in workshops, alongside seasoned actors like Dhananjay, helped build rapport and enhance compatibility,” she notes.

Despite initial skepticism about Param’s transition from television to cinema, Moksha praises his dedication and clarity as a director. “Param’s meticulous preparation, extraordinary storytelling, and clarity on set reassured me of his directorial prowess,” she states, expressing confidence in his potential to make a mark in the industry.

As Moksha signs off, she reveals that amidst the flurry of offers coming her way, she’s holding her breath, anxiously awaiting the outcome of Kotee before she commits to her next project.”This juncture marks a pivotal moment in my career, where the potential success of Kotee could be the catalyst for recognition and good opportunities going forward.”

‘WE CAN’T BLAME THE AUDIENCE WHEN WE DON’T PROVIDE THEM WITH QUALITY CONTENT’

Director Anand Raj opens up about the importance of exploring content-driven cinema and rare genres, why we shouldn’t rely solely on masala flicks and expect audiences to flock to theatres, his sophomore directorial Chef Chidambara, and more

A SHARADHAA

ANAND Raj, a devoted follower of Upendra’s filmmaking style, is carving a niche in the Kannada film industry with his unconventional storytelling and unique subjects. With Raaghu, he already showcased his ability to handle a story that required a solo performance by Vijay Raghavendra. Not only did he earn praise for the filmmaking but also for the film’s music composed by Ritwik Muralidhar. Now, with Chef Chidambara, his second venture which is set to hit theatres on June 14, he is exploring a rare genre again. The film, produced by Roopa DN under the Damthi Pictures banner, brings Aniruddha Jatkar back after a long hiatus, along with Nidhi Subbaiah and Rachel David.

According to Anand Raj, exploring dark comedy in Kannada cinema is indeed a rarity, but it’s a genre that has shown promise elsewhere, as seen in the success of films like Andhadhun. “When we talk about content from other languages, Malayalam cinema is just at the top of their game. And when we fail to deliver good content, we can’t blame our audience. When we are not providing them with quality content, they cannot be blamed. Of course, OTT platforms have made cinema easier to access, but it’s still important to draw audiences to theaters. At the same time, we can’t make masala films and expect people to flock to the theaters.”

Anand Raj also speaks from the producer’s point of view. “As filmmakers, we should also consider the budget and the producer’s perspective. Cinema is my passion, but for the producer, it’s a business. So as a director, you should be aware of your script and budget, and cast actors accordingly. When a film can be made for just over 2 crores, you can’t set a budget of 10 crores just because you have an investor,” says the director, adding, “Even when I collaborated with my producer, she gave me a free hand with the investment and was comfortable with my requirements. But I made sure to maintain my limit. I was clear with the producers about the actors, and their pulling power, and worked accordingly. That’s what I believe a director should focus on,” he explains.

A still from the film

Sharing briefly about Chef Chidambara, Anand Raj mentions that the film portrays violence and death in a comedic light, pushing boundaries and offering audiences something fresh and unexpected. “Chidambara, a chef, faces a bizarre situation when a visitor dies in his apartment. Corrupt Inspector Indrajith demands money to settle the matter or threatens arrest. The next day, the body disappears, leaving Chidambara in a quandary. How he deals with this mystery over the course of three days forms the crux of this dark comedy thriller.”

Regarding the casting of Aniruddha, who is making a comeback to the silver screen with this film, Anand Raj explains, “Actor Aniruddha chose me to direct him in Chef Chidambara. For over six months, he had been contemplating a return to cinema and had met many directors, but no story struck him. Coincidentally, I met Aniruddha with another director who was planning to pitch a story but he didn’t like it. I just had a one-liner of Chef Chidambara and he connected with it instantly green lighting the project. Although he hadn’t seen my debut film, Raaghu, he knew it was an experiment and that was entertaining. Though it didn’t do well commercially, it personally earned me a good reputation, and the industry recognised me, and so did actor Aniruddha. He gave his heart and soul to this project.”

The film stars two female leads, Nidhi Subbaiah and Rachel David, and according to Anand Raj, the latter’s role wasn’t initially written. “I had pitched a friend character, alongside the lead. However, Aniruddha suggested that there was a need for a heroine in the film. So, we decided to convert it into a girlfriend’s character, and that’s how Rachel David came into the picture.”

The director, who collaborated with technicians from Raaghu, has Ritwik Muralidhar scoring the music and background score, and Uday Leela as cinematographer.

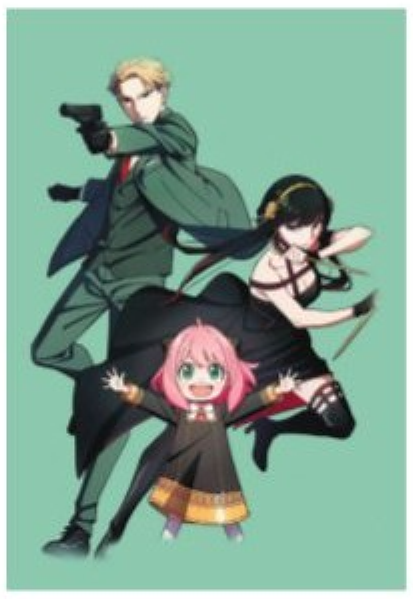
Spy x Family renewed for season 3

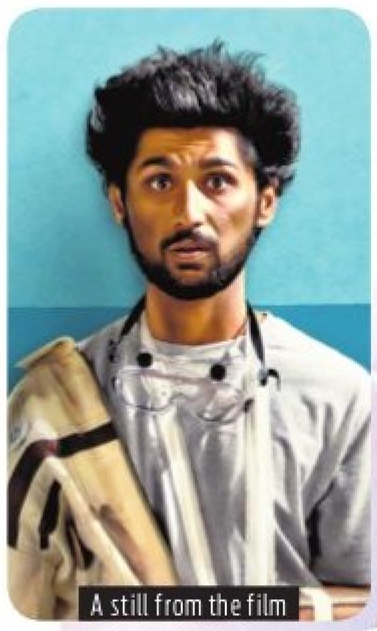
CE FEATURES

THE hit anime series Spy x Family, which streams on Crunchyroll, has been renewed for a third season. The slice of life series is based on Tatsuya Endo’s Japanese manga series. Along with the announcement, the makers released a new teaser visual illustrated by character designer Kazuaki Shimada and designed by art director Yuni Yoshida. Though further details about Season 3 are yet to be unveiled, the illustration features Anya and Bond.

The first season, which aired on TV Tokyo in April 2022, was directed by Kazuhiro Furuhashi who was replaced by Takahiro Harada for the second season. The franchise got an anime film Spy x Family Code: White, which got a theatrical premiere in Japan in December.



Firefly will be a groundbreaking film in Kannada cinema: Sheetal Shetty



A still from the film

Niveditha’s film background gives her a keen cinematic vision, regardless of gender, and is a solid support as a producer, I am glad she chose to back a film like Firefly.

Sheetal Shetty, actor

CE FEATURES

NIVEDITHA Shivarajkumar’s maiden production, Firefly, helmed by Vamshi Krishna Srinivas, who also stars as the lead, brings together an interesting ensemble of actors. The latest news is that anchor-turned-actor Sheetal Shetty, noted for her performance in Rakshit Shetty's Ulidavaru Kandanthe among other films, is returning to cinema after a hiatus with Firefly. Announcing the same on the occasion of the actor's birthday, the makers wrote, "The world of Vicky is about to shine even brighter with our Divya in."

Sheetal Shetty, who has recently finished shooting and dubbing for the film, shared with us her experience working with a debutant director and collaborating with producer Niveditha. She also provided a brief overview of her role in the film.

"Vamshi arrived on set fully prepared, with a clear vision for his actors. He doesn’t work like a debutant director. His storytelling, character portrayal, and management of the cast, show his remarkable talent," says Sheetal, adding, "Their meticulous pre-planning and youthful technical team convinced me of their exceptional abilities. While dubbing for the film, I saw how the film has turned out beautifully."

Sheetal believes that Firefly will be a groundbreaking film in Kannada cinema, destined to be remembered for its making, and content in the years to come. "Niveditha's film background gives her a keen cinematic vision, regardless of gender, and is a solid support as a producer, I am glad she chose to back a film like Firefly. Describing her role, she explains, "Divya sees the light in life and has a deep understanding of human connections. I could relate with the character, which allowed me to portray her effortlessly."

The film, produced by Sri Muthu Creations, features Shivarajkumar in a special appearance. Raghu Niduvalli is penning the dialogues, while Abhilash Kalahathi will be taking care of the cinematography, and Charan Raj will handle the music.

Mia McKenna-Bruce to headline The Seven Dials Mystery

MIA McKenna-Bruce will be starring alongside Martin Freeman and Helena Bonham Carter in The Seven Dials Mystery. The Netflix series is described as an interpretation of Agatha Christie’s novel of the same name. McKenna-Bruce, is best known for the 2023 film How to Have Sex, which won the Un Certain Regard award at the Cannes Film Festival.

The upcoming series is written by Chris Chibnall, best known as the showrunner of Doctor Who and the writer of Broadchurch, and directed by Chris Sweeney. According to reports, the plot revolves around a lavish party at a country house in which a prank contributes to a murder. Ultimately, it becomes the task of McKenna-Bruce’s detective Lady Eileen “Bundle” Brent to solve the mystery.
